Medicaid Kickbacks Probed By Senate Panel

Becky Jean Schwalbaugh, 20, Route 1, Laurelville, died early Sunday morning of injuries she apparently suffered in a single-car accident several hours earlier in Whisler.

Ms. Schwalbaugh was pronounced dead at Berger Hospital, where she was taken by the Kingston Emergency Squad. Massive head injuries were the apparent cause.

The accident, investigated by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies J. Phillip Brown and Vaughn Herdman, occurred 1:40 a.m. Sunday on the Hayesville Road, just east of the Kingston-Whisler Road intersection.

Ms. Schwalbaugh, headed east on the Hayesville Road, had just rounded a left curve when she apparently lost control of her car, with the right rear wheel of the car leaving the paved surface on the right side for 24 feet.

The car returned to the roadway, but skidded 72 feet to the centerline and then continued to slide sideways across the center line into the west-bound lane for 27 feet and off the left side for 33 feet.

The car traveled sideways into a large tree, with the passenger side of the vehicle wrapping around the tree on impact.

Born Oct. 31, 1955, in Fairfield County, Ms. Schwalbaugh was the daughter of Clem and Rosella Karr Schwalbaugh Jr., who survive at Route 1, Laurelville.

She is also survived by a sister, Mrs. Gary (Brenda) McNichols, Route 1, Laurelville; one brother, Ray, of the home; and a grandmother, Mrs. Carrie Schwalbaugh, Adelphi.

Funeral service will be 2 p.m. Wednesday at Hill Funeral Home, Kingston, with the Rev. Raymond Welch officiating. Burial will be in Mt. Olive Cemetery, South Perry.

Friends may call at the funeral home beginning 6:30 p.m. today.

Two other people were injured in single-car accidents last weekend, deputies said.

Fred L. Smallwood, 39, Route 5, complained of chest and back pains after his car crashed into a ditch on the Stoutsville Pike, a half mile west of the Bolender-Pontious Road intersection.

Deputies charged Smallwood with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol after investigating the 10:35 p.m. Sunday accident.

Smallwood was eastbound on the Stoutsville Pike when he lost control of his car, going left of center and off the left side of the road for 60 feet before crashing into a ditch.

Deputies also investigated a one-car accident in Hocking County when the driver of the vehicle was treated at Berger Hospital.

Cheryl I. Jones, 18, Laurelville, was treated at the hospital for back injuries she suffered in the 1 a.m. Sunday accident on Route 56, a quarter of a mile south of the Saltcreek-Narrows Road.

Two passengers in the car, James O. Seymour, 22, Laurelville, and Loring G. Thompson, Route 1, Laurelville, were not hurt.

According to the report, Ms. Jones was driving north on Route 56 and passing another car when her vehicle slid into a ditch.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A small number of medical laboratories are kicking back millions of dollars in Medicaid funds to physicians in at least five states, investigators are telling a Senate panel.

The testimony came as the Senate committee on aging began hearings today on allegations of fraud and abuse among medical laboratories. The chairman of the committee, Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, said in an opening statement that a small number of labs control the bulk of Medicaid payments.

Moss said that in New York, 17 labs control 70 per cent of the Medicaid business, while 12 labs in New Jersey control nearly 60 per cent of Medicaid payments there. In Illinois, 26 labs control over 90 per cent of the Medicaid business, he said.

The investigation also covered California and Pennsylvania.

Moss said a report by the panel's staff "concludes that, at least in the states which came under investigation, kickbacks are widespread among labs specializing in Medicaid business. In fact, it appears to be necessary to give a kickback in order to secure the business of physicians or clinics who specialize in the treatment of welfare patients."

Under the Medicaid program, the state and federal governments are paying out a total of about $180.5 million in the current fiscal year to laboratories for analyses of blood and urine and other specimens taken from the aged, poor, blind and disabled.

In addition, Medicare payments for persons 65 years and older account for an additional $32.5 million.

The panel's staff said that of the total payout of $213 million, at least $45 million is "either fraudulent or unnecessary."

One account of the opportunity for kickbacks came from Douglas A. Longhini, an investigator for the Better Government Association of Chicago. In his prepared testimony, Longhini said the BGA, the Chicago Tribune and CBS' "60 Minutes" rented a $400-a-month storefront office on Chicago's northeast side last December.

Longhini said a sign placed in the window advertised it as a medical clinic. In addition, he said, he contacted representatives of 15 Chicago-based laboratories and told them he represented two Illinois doctors who were opening the clinic.

"Of the 13 laboratories I spoke to, 11 labs offered the doctors a kickback or rebate on the dollar amount of laboratory business referred by the medical clinic to the lab," Longhini said.

Additional interviews found a total of 13 independent labs giving kickbacks to doctors and clinics which accounted for 65 per cent of Illinois' Medicaid payments to clinical labs in 1975, he said.

The report concludes that it is apparent that the law passed by Congress in 1972 prohibiting kickbacks and mandating a $10,000 fine and a year in jail upon conviction is not being enforced.

Bitter Feud Mars Big Labor Meeting

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A bitter feud among government worker unions marred the opening of the AFL-CIO's winter meeting.

President Jerry Wurf of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) withdrew his union from the AFL-CIO's year-old Public Employees Department, denouncing it as "a waste of time and money."

Wurf, whose union was the department's largest affiliate, charged Sunday that the department has not had impact on any legislation crucial to public employees.

"In reaching this decision," he said, "we have been influenced by what we perceive as the domination of the department by private sector unions, the lack of leadership and the department's inability to develop and carry out a coherent program."

In another development as the AFL-CIO Executive Council meeting opened today, construction union leaders said they have dropped plans to campaign against President Ford in the primaries and will urge their members to concentrate their political efforts in behalf of Democratic candidates.

"We don't see any announced candidates in the Republican Party that would be good for the working man," President Robert A. Georgine of the federation's Building and Construction Trades Department told a news conference.

Building Trades, which backed then-President Richard Nixon in 1972, declared last month that it would actively campaign against Ford after he vetoed legislation that would have expanded union picketing rights at construction sites.

But the union chiefs apparently concluded that an anti-Ford campaign would aid his Republican challenger, former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, whom the unions also oppose.

The public employees dispute was triggered by Wurf's refusal to pay his union's full dues to the department, but the roots of it went much deeper.

Wurf, one of the few executive council members who often openly disagrees with President George Meany, originally opposed creation of a public employees department. Insiders said he did not want a rival to the Coalition of American Public Employees, an independent group composed of Wurf's union and several non-AFL-CIO organizations.

The dispute does not affect AFSCME affiliation with the parent AFL-CIO, to which it continues to pay its full dues.

Kissinger Opens Latin Tour Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is beginning an oft-postponed Latin American tour, hoping to reassure cynical southern allies of their importance to the United States.

His first stop comes in Venezuela today, with Peru, Brazil, Colombia, Costa Rica and Guatemala to follow before he returns home Feb. 24.

"Kissinger needs to establish a more credible posture in Latin America. We don't pay enough attention to their concerns," said one American specialist.

While attempting to sidestep such divisive issues as Cuba and the Panama Canal, Kissinger will try to highlight friendly overtures. For instance, he will report in Caracas on his efforts to remove a Caceronally mandated exclusion of Venezuela from trade preferences.

Venezuela and Ecuador were ordered excluded because of their membership in the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, which cut off oil exports to the United States in 1973.

Since neither Venezuela nor Ecuador participated in the boycott, the exclusion is resented in Latin America.

Discussions of economics and trade, including the question of nationalization of American property, should help create a more trusting relationship, officials hope.

Dozens Hurt In Boston Outbreak

BOSTON (AP) — Antibusing demonstrators and police traded charges of brutality after a riot near South Boston High School that left dozens of persons injured and 13 arrested.

At the height of Sunday's melee, police said a crowd of about 400 antibusing marchers wielded bottles, bricks, clubs and tire irons in an attack on police which was coordinated by citizen band radios. The protestors countered that police tried to break up their march for no reason and charged into them on horseback and motorcycles.

Police Commissioner Robert J. DiGrazia called for a grand jury investigation. He charged that the confrontation, in which at least three police officers were hurt, was a conspiracy by hoodlums to injure police.

The fracas erupted during a "Fathers' March" against busing in South Boston, the site of major disruptions since U.S. District Court Judge W. Arthur Garrity Jr. ordered the city schools desegregated in September 1974.

A spokesman for the antibusing group ROAR, Restore Our Alienated Rights, responded with a statement also calling for a federal investigation.

"We demand that diGrazia be dismissed and the Tactical Patrol Force be disbanded," said Richard Laws. The TPF is a riot control squad.

"We further demand a thorough investigation by the U.S. attorney's office of the TPF for violating the constitutional right of freedom of peaceful assembly by the citizens of Boston."

City Council President Louise Day Hicks, a founder of Boston's antibusing organizations, said, "I can truthfully say if there had been no police in South Boston, there would not have been any of this. It was the first time the men had really banded together in protest of forced busing."

There have been several "Mothers' Marches."

Police said it was the first time tear gas was used to break up a demonstration here. They claimed that demonstrators threw tear gas first, and they said they have video tapes to prove that claim.

"At least 30 to 40 police were struck with missiles," police spokesman Norman Halliday said.

The march was organized by a group called the South Boston Marshals. The confrontation erupted when the marchers tried to approach the high school and were met by police.

Washington Sought Death, Medical Researcher Reports

CHICAGO (AP) — George Washington, exhausted from illness and medical treatment, asked his doctors to cease their efforts and let him die. They did, says Dr. F. Marc LaForce.

They did not resort to the one radical procedure available which might have prolonged his life, because it had never been tried in the United States, LaForce said.

LaForce, chief of medical service at Veterans Administration Hospital, Denver, notes that the first president's behavior is not particularly unusual.

He said in a telephone interview that patients "sort of know" when they are going to die and say to their physicians, "Please, don't."

He said that in Washington's case, his three doctors "were willing to let go because they had nothing else to offer."

One of the doctors, Elisha Dick, suggested a tracheotomy — surgical creation of a hole in the windpipe to make breathing easier.

This is the one procedure which DiGrazia said the attack was coordinated with citizen band radios and said he would seek an investigation by the Federal Communications Commission. He also said he would seek immediate investigations by the Justice Department and a grand jury.

Police, contending the school was not on the authorized parade route, turned the crowd back.

"I see no reason they shouldn't have been allowed to go up to that school," Mrs. Hicks said.

Last fall, Garrity restricted unauthorized persons from getting close to the school.

might have prolonged Washington's life, LaForce said, because medical records indicate he had a severe upper respiratory obstruction.

But it had never before been done in the United States and was considered such a radical procedure that the two other physicians rejected the suggestion, LaForce said.

Washington had been blistered and bled, accepted medical procedures for his time, and was no doubt severely weakened by the treatment, he said.

Finally, after a fourth bleeding without improvement in his condition, Washington said, "I feel myself going. I thank you for your attention. You had better not take any more trouble about me but let me go off quietly; I cannot last long."

Around midnight Dec. 14, 1799, he died, at age 67, 48 hours after becoming ill with a sore throat.

LaForce, whose hobby is history, recounted Washington's fatal illness in a paper presented in Tucson, Ariz., to the American Medical Women's Association.

Ned Harden To Receive State's Highest Honor

Gov. James A. Rhodes will present the state's highest honor, the Ohio Governor's Award, to Ned W. Harden at the Ohio Newspaper Association (ONA) annual dinner Feb. 19 at the Columbus Sheraton Motor Hotel.

Twenty-one awards will be presented to Ohioans for "excellence of achievement benefiting mankind and improving the quality of life for all Ohioans."

Harden, a life-long resident of the Circleville area, is receiving the 1975 Governor's Award for his 25 years of involvement with the nationally-acclaimed Circleville Pumpkin Show and his efforts on the national scene in helping Ohio to gain its reputation as the "Festival State."

In addition to devoting many leisure hours to the promotion of the "Greatest Free Show on Earth,"

Harden assists the Ohio Festivals and Events Association by lending his expertise to communities wanting to organize festivals.

In 1969 Harden was named by Gov. Rhodes to serve on the newly organized Ohio Travel Council. In recent years he has served as Ohio's representative to the International Festival Association. He presently serves as the organization's vice president.

The award presentation is a joint effort of the ONA and the state of Ohio. The state processes nominations and supplies the bronze awards and the ONA provides a forum for the presentation at their annual convention banquet.

This year's presentation marks the 27th anniversary of the awards. Although the wording has changed through the years, the distinctive bronze plaque presented to each award recipient still symbolizes today what it did in 1949 — the highest standards of achievement in service to society.

This year twenty-one awards will be presented. Eight persons will be receiving a special "All-Time Great Ohioan Award." During this bicentennial year this special citation will honor outstanding individuals for their "pioneering contribution to society."

The 1975 "All-Time Great Ohioans" are: Neil A. Armstrong, Wapakoneta, first man to step on the moon's surface; Lillian Gish, Springfield, "First Lady of the Silent Screen"; John Cardinal Krol, Cleveland, member of the College of Cardinals in the Roman Catholic Church; Jesse B. Owens, Cleveland, all-time great track and field star; Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, Bowersville, world renowned author and minister; Dr. Albert B. Sabin, Cincinnati, famed microbiologist and physician; discoverer of the oral vaccine for polio; Lowell Thomas, Darke County, illustrious broadcaster, filmmaker, explorer and author; Earl Wilson, Rockford, nationally syndicated columnist.

The 1975 Ohio Governor's Award winners are:

The Cincinnati Reds baseball team. The Reds defeated the American League's Boston Red Sox in what has been called the most exciting World Series in baseball history to bring the 1975 World Championship to Cincinnati and Ohio.

Raymond E. Dix, Wooster, publisher of the Daily Record newspaper. Dix has made major contributions to the newspaper industry through his work with the Inter American Press Association and the Ohio Newspaper Association. He is the guiding force in the Dix organization which publishes seven dailies and five weeklies in Ohio and dailies in Georgia, Florida and Kentucky.

Paul R. Gingham, Lancaster native and Columbus resident, trial lawyer, insurance executive and civic leader. Gingham is being cited for his outstanding contributions which enrich the Columbus community. He has served in almost every civic, service and community organization that has improved services and facilities in Columbus. A former two-term state senator, Gingham recently had a natatorium named in his honor by the Boys' Club of Columbus in appreciation of his contributions.

Harden assists the Ohio Festivals and Events Association by lending his expertise to communities wanting to organize festivals.

In 1969 Harden was named by Gov. Rhodes to serve on the newly organized Ohio Travel Council. In recent years he has served as Ohio's representative to the International Festival Association. He presently serves as the organization's vice president.

The award presentation is a joint effort of the ONA and the state of Ohio. The state processes nominations and supplies the bronze awards and the ONA provides a forum for the presentation at their annual convention banquet.

This year's presentation marks the 27th anniversary of the awards. Although the wording has changed through the years, the distinctive bronze plaque presented to each award recipient still symbolizes today what it did in 1949 — the highest standards of achievement in service to society.

This year twenty-one awards will be presented. Eight persons will be receiving a special "All-Time Great Ohioan Award." During this bicentennial year this special citation will honor outstanding individuals for their "pioneering contribution to society."

The 1975 "All-Time Great Ohioans" are: Neil A. Armstrong, Wapakoneta, first man to step on the moon's surface; Lillian Gish, Springfield, "First Lady of the Silent Screen"; John Cardinal Krol, Cleveland, member of the College of Cardinals in the Roman Catholic Church; Jesse B. Owens, Cleveland, all-time great track and field star; Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, Bowersville, world renowned author and minister; Dr. Albert B. Sabin, Cincinnati, famed microbiologist and physician; discoverer of the oral vaccine for polio; Lowell Thomas, Darke County, illustrious broadcaster, filmmaker, explorer and author; Earl Wilson, Rockford, nationally syndicated columnist.

The 1975 Ohio Governor's Award winners are:

The Cincinnati Reds baseball team. The Reds defeated the American League's Boston Red Sox in what has been called the most exciting World Series in baseball history to bring the 1975 World Championship to Cincinnati and Ohio.

Raymond E. Dix, Wooster, publisher of the Daily Record newspaper. Dix has made major contributions to the newspaper industry through his work with the Inter American Press Association and the Ohio Newspaper Association. He is the guiding force in the Dix organization which publishes seven dailies and five weeklies in Ohio and dailies in Georgia, Florida and Kentucky.

Paul R. Gingham, Lancaster native and Columbus resident, trial lawyer, insurance executive and civic leader. Gingham is being cited for his outstanding contributions which enrich the Columbus community. He has served in almost every civic, service and community organization that has improved services and facilities in Columbus. A former two-term state senator, Gingham recently had a natatorium named in his honor by the Boys' Club of Columbus in appreciation of his contributions.

Indian Newsman Files Suit

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The Indian government has impounded the passport of a prominent newspaper publisher who has been a critic of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's clampdown on the press.

The action was revealed today when Cushman Russy Irani, managing director of the Statesman and an active member of international press associations, filed suit in the Calcutta high court to get his passport back.

Irani charged in the suit that the government ordered him to surrender his passport in late January as part of a continuing campaign to have him removed from the Statesman and to make the newspaper "confirm to and consistently support government policies."

The 101-year-old Statesman, published from New Delhi and Calcutta with a combined circulation of 200,000, is widely regarded as the only independent newspaper left in the country following successful government efforts to have other formerly critical publications adopt editorial policies supporting Mrs. Gandhi.

The Calcutta court ordered the government to reply to the suit on Feb. 26, giving reasons why Irani's passport should not be returned to him.

The action marked the first known time since the government declared a state of emergency last June, suspended civil liberties and imposed press censorship that a leading journalist has been barred from leaving the country.

Lockheed Claim Denied

TOKYO (AP) — Millionaire Kenji Osano denied under oath today that he helped Lockheed sell planes in Japan and said he was considering suing the U.S. aircraft company's former president for defamation.

Osano, a close friend of former Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka, was the first witness at the parliamentary budget committee's probe into former Lockheed president A.C. Kitchian's report that his company paid $12.3 million to boost its sales in Japan between 1958 and 1973.

Kitchian told a U.S. Senate subcommittee that Osano was helpful in Lockheed's drive for Japanese sales. Osano testified that he had met Kitchian several times, but he denied that he assisted him in pushing aircraft sales or even discussed such sales with him.

Indiana Assembly Ponders Measures

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — When the General Assembly reconvenes Tuesday after a five-day recess, 37 bills now before conference committees will be vying for legislators' attention. There are only three session days left. Unless compromises are achieved, the bills will die. Included are the measures comprising the fiscal 1977 state budget.

If the budget bills die, the current one-year spending plan will be activated for another year.

Also before a conference committee is the bill to boost unemployment benefits as much as 20 per cent.

One bill on which a compromise seems likely is recodification of the criminal laws. It has support in both the House and Senate, and the conference committee is working out technical problems.

Detective Held As 'Hit Man'

NEW YORK (AP) — Authorities say the arrest of a New York City detective as the alleged "hit man" in a Denver murder resulted from the investigation of an attempt by New York organized crime figures to take over a Denver business.

Detective Robert Davis was held without bail Sunday after he refused to waive extradition and return to Denver where he is charged with the murder of Colorado businessman-gambler Hal Levine, 46.

Four other men and a retired New York detective, Michael Borrelli, 45, were also arrested in connection with the slaying.

"Levine's death was part of the infiltration of organized crime into Denver from New York. His death was definitely a hit from back East," said Denver Police Sgt. Robert Cantwell.

Hepatitis Outbreaks May Happen Anytime

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — One person, who did not even know he was sick, apparently spread a potentially fatal disease to more than 100 local residents. Health officials say there's no way to keep it from happening again — anywhere.

The disease is hepatitis A, formerly called infectious hepatitis, a liver inflammation caused by a virus in the gastrointestinal tract and capable of causing permanent liver damage.

By the time the state health department got into the situation, there were 116 confirmed cases in this city about 25 miles south of Oklahoma City and 19 other possible cases that could not be confirmed.

It was one of the largest outbreaks of the disease in the United States in recent years. The majority of the cases were clustered around schools in the western part of town and most of the victims were between the ages of 10 and 18.

The national Center for Disease Control in Atlanta said the outbreak was the result of contaminated icing on doughnuts. It refused to say where the doughnuts originated, but said the source of the disease was a baker's helper with hepatitis.

Dr. Mark Roberts, state epidemiologist, said hepatitis A is spread through fecal material finding its way somehow into the mouth of a victim. "Generally, there are two basic types of spread," he said. "One comes when people live in very, very close contact such as a mother and child, a husband and wife or a boyfriend and a girl friend."

"The other comes through food contamination, when a person with the disease handles the food and someone else eats it."

Roberts said the person responsible for spreading the infection in Norman had removed himself before the state health department became involved. He refused to identify the source, but said he would have done so if the threat of continued infection had been present.

"Hepatitis is an ever-present danger throughout the country," Roberts added. "We're all eating out more. We can check restaurants for some communicable diseases or for things such as temperature control, but there is no way to check on hepatitis. You can't legislate against food-borne outbreaks."

He said it is impossible to follow every employee of every restaurant to the toilet to make sure they wash their hands.

"What we have to get across is that a person can help prevent the spread of hepatitis by very close attention to personal hygiene habits."

"In food establishments, everyone has to be very particular in the manner in which they handle the foods, everywhere, from the backyard picnic or church social to the large sitdown banquets."

While stressing that personal hygiene can help prevent future outbreaks, the hepatitis virus "is a very opportunistic bug," said Roberts. "If there is any sort of a foulup in the food handling, it is going to get in there. It's a little scary."

Big Bird Flees; Danger Noted

LAWRENCEBURG, Ind. (AP) — William Brasier's pet bird flew the coop, so to speak, causing quite a stir in this southeastern Indiana area.

His pet is a 6-foot-2-inch rare South American Rhea. It really can't fly, but can run up to 40 miles an hour. Brasier, 18, Rt. 1, Lawrenceburg, said Boomer tore down a five-foot fence. Sheriff James B. Wisnann of Dearborn County says the big bird weighs about 160 pounds, has large spurs on its feet, white, gray and black plumage and "has been known to attack humans."

Owner Brasier says his pet is more aggressive than usual because it's the mating season. "When he's mean, he holds his head up, reaching his full height," Brasier said. "He snaps at me with his bill, but I know how to handle him. I'm worried that someone is going to shoot at him or let their dogs bark at him."

Deaths

INFANT JONES

Debra Lynn Jones, infant daughter of Charles and Joyce Ann Jones, 966 S. Pickaway St., was dead at birth Saturday at Riverside Hospital, Columbus.

Other survivors include a twin sister, Darcey Lynn Jones; maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Millard Massie, Circleville; paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Jones, Williamsport; several aunts and uncles.

A graveside service will be conducted 2 p.m. Tuesday at Floral Hills Memory Garden with the Rev. Pearl Casto officiating. Arrangements are under the direction of Bastian Funeral Home in Ashville.

MRS. BLANCHE MONTGOMERY

Mrs. M. Blanche Montgomery, 82, Washington C.H., died 8 a.m. Sunday in Fayette Memorial Hospital. Born Dec. 31, 1893 in New Vienna, she was the daughter of Jacob and Emma Wayne Chaney.

She was a member of South Side Church of Christ, Washington C.H. Her husband, William O. Montgomery, preceded her in death in 1958.

Survivors include, two daughters, Mrs. Archie (Bernice) Rawlinson of Williamsport; Mrs. Ralph (Erma) Lohr of Dayton; and two grandchildren.

Services will be 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, Washington C.H., with the Rev. Charles Richmond officiating. Burial will be in Washington Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday.

Cleanup Begins In Prison Outbreak

CONCORD, Mass. (AP) — A big cleanup began at Concord State Prison today after inmate rioting that caused an estimated $1 million in damages, virtually destroying a dormitory and heavily damaging a gymnasium and library.

Corrections Commissioner Frank A. Hall said 60 to 80 inmates were involved in the four-hour disturbance Sunday which brought 100 state police and 50 off-duty correctional officers to the maximum security prison.

"There has been extensive damage, considerable damage, at least $1 million in damage," Hall said. "There are certain people involved in getting it started, about 15 or 20, and we know who they are."

The inmates surrendered peacefully after police and guards surrounded the dormitory.

During the rioting, inmates set several small fires in the prison buildings and flooded both with emergency fire hoses. Windows were broken, and bedding, clothing and personal possessions were scattered throughout the flooded hallways.

Desks and file cabinets in the guard control rooms were toppled and their contents scattered and torn.

Bookshelves in the prison library were overturned and thousands of books lay soaked in the several inches of water that covered the floors.

In the gym, a movie screen was ripped from the stage and several rows of bleachers toppled from a platform.

Hall said the incident apparently began when guards arrived to escort two inmates who allegedly were "under the influence" from the dorm area. The first man was escorted without incident. But when officers returned for the second inmate, other prisoners started shouting and harassing the guards, Hall said.

"Before we knew it ... there was a general fracas involving several officers and 50 to 60 inmates," he said. "We were lucky to escape with our lives," said one guard.

Hall said some prisoners shouted about "unreasonable force" they thought was used in carrying off the allegedly drunken inmate.

Find 'Pill' Dangers

CHICAGO (AP) — A Kentucky medical research group reports that oral contraceptives may cause tumors of the liver.

Doctors from the University of Louisville School of Medicine wrote in the Feb. 16 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association that 13 young women developed liver tumors after taking birth control pills. Nine of the tumors were benign, four malignant.

The patients were young, non-alcoholic, generally healthy and free of liver disease, said surgeon E. Truman Mays, M.D.

The exact role of contraceptive pills in liver tumors is unproved, he said, "but a possible link between these pills and hepatic (liver) tumor seems increasingly likely."

However, a study done by the Population Council released over the weekend found that the mortality risk among women who use the pill and other major birth control measures is generally lower than the risk of death from pregnancy itself.

As an exception, the study noted that the risk of death from oral contraceptives is higher than that from pregnancy for women over 40. It recommended alternative methods of birth control for women in the over-40 age bracket.

A Page Of Opinion

Not Necessarily So

Experts in most fields are much better at telling us what transpired in the past than in predicting the future. That goes double in projections of energy consumption a quarter century from now. Such a projection has come from the U.S. Bureau of Mines. The point is to give some idea of the energy consumption in the United States by the year 2000.

Current levels of consumption will more than double in the next 24 years, or so the experts project, and the emphasis will have turned to coal and nuclear energy for fuels. As for petroleum, the experts predict natural gas consumption will continue to climb, domestic oil production will increase by 30 per cent — but oil consumption will grow by almost 70 per cent.

If that forecast should come to pass it would mean a far heavier reliance on imported oil than the current level of about 40 per cent. It also means the chances of energy independence any time in the next quarter century is virtually nil.

But those predictions are based on assumptions which at least are questionable. They presume energy conservation will be all but abandoned, the supply of imported oil will be available in whatever volume the nation demands and at a price the consumer is willing to pay.

The projections also are based on settlements somehow of the many environmental roadblocks which have stifled development of coal and nuclear industries. They also appear to assume there will be no major international disruptions in world oil supplies such as the Arab oil embargo which followed the last Middle East war.

All of that adds up to a lot of supposition.

Doing Penance

By JIM BISHOP

Some men act rough and rude to prove to themselves that they are manly. Others exude an aura of masculinity. My old man was all man all the way. And yet he could admire a bouquet of flowers, a new dress, and once I saw him weep while watching "The Student Prince."

He was a big, broad man with a handsome Irish kisser. He may have been somewhat of a dandy because he loved to dress well. He pressed his own blue suits in the kitchen; he shined his black shoes in the lavatory. His police uniform had brass buttons and gold bars which were polished daily.

I asked him if he was ever afraid. "Yes," he said. "I was in two gun fights when you were little. I was all right in the action but afterward I shook so hard I almost dropped my revolver."

He admired stout women, whom he called "handsome." He loved classical music and studied trumpet and piano. When he was young, he played semi-professional baseball and soccer. He was also 220-yard low hurdles champion of the National Guard.

He played poker with the men and came home drunk. He bathed and showered before breakfast and enjoyed salt mackerel and toast and tea. He purchased a big medical encyclopedia and, in four nights of reading, acquired two of every three diseases described. The book went into the garbage can.

Anyone can look good when he's on top. Big John looked good doing penance. He had strong religious feelings and feared God's wrath until the day he died.

And yet, Big John made one monumental mistake. He left my mother. He had given it a lot of thought. Mother was old-fashioned and plains. As one year of marriage succeeded another, he hunted additional knowledge. Jenny had no interests other than the care of husband and family and home.

He was gone 16 years. Adequate support money arrived every two weeks. He visited in the evenings to discuss homework with three children and family problems. My mother spoke through us to him: "Tell your father that the rent is going up $5 next month." Thin-lipped, growling, he would say, "Tell your mother I'll take care of it."

We were all married when he returned home. Big John wore a lot of pride. It was difficult for him to get on his knees, even figuratively, to appeal to my mother for forgiveness.

But it was this, I feel, that made him a man. He did it. He begged to be taken back. Jenny said she'd think about it. She had never been in love with another man; she was suspicious of the gender. She took him back. Deep in middle age, they started life together. He retired from the police department and got a position as credit manager of a group of weekly newspapers. He was out in his car all day, winter and summer, collecting overdue debts.

He tried hard to make everything up to her. Big John didn't know it, but his time of trial was coming. Jenny developed diabetes. Here was no oral insulin. It was he who handled the needle; he matched the urine to the color chart.

All the beautiful music of life was slipping behind him. She was losing her sight. She leaned on a dollar bamboo cane. The eyes glistened sightlessly.

He saw Jenny as she was — an old lady with wispy hair and custardy skin. She saw him, in her darkness, as the young, strong, handsome fella she had married.

Big John never complained. For years he dressed her in the morning, made her breakfast, turned her radio on to the soap serials, and put the hand on a phone so she could call for help if she needed it. "If anyone rings the doorbell," he would say, "don't answer."

He worked twice as hard all day because there were younger men who could work better and faster. At night he parked his car, wheezed a little, and hurried to the apartment to wash up and make dinner.

She developed whims and irritations. Big John knuckled under to everything. He learned to use a vacuum cleaner, to dust, to wash dishes. He shampooed her hair. When they went on automobile rides, he drove and described the scenery at the same time.

She died at 73. He died at 85. Once, in a burst of confidence, he said, "I expect to be punished for what I did." I shook my head. "I don't think so," I said . . .

WASHINGTON (AP) — The output of the nation's industry increased for the ninth consecutive month in January, another indication that last month was a good one for the economy.

An increase in industrial production should mean more jobs became available in the nation's factories, mines and utilities.

The Federal Reserve Board said Friday that industrial production rose by seven-tenths of 1 per cent in January and six-tenths of 1 per cent in December.

Production of consumer goods, such as home appliances and television sets, was strong, although the Fed noted a slight reduction in auto output.

The gains in industrial production followed a big drop in unemployment to 7.8 per cent during the month and reports that wholesale prices were stable for the third consecutive month in January — indicating continuing improvement in the nation's inflation problems.

The Labor Department said in its wholesale price report Friday that prices of farm products, including most foods, declined 2.8 per cent in January, the third straight month of decline.

The Federal Reserve Board said its industrial production index for January stood at 119.3 of the 1967 average of 100. That represented an 8.5 per cent increase in production since the recession low last April.

Auto production dropped slightly to an annual rate of 7.6 million units, down from 7.8 million units in December. However, the board said it expects auto production to rise to the eight million unit level in February.

In Detroit, the nation's four auto companies said domestic car sales were up 21 per cent in early February from depressed year-earlier levels, when cash rebates were offered to stimulate an anemic market.

Industry sales remained down 14 per cent from the same 1973 period, before the industry plunged into a deep two-year slump.

All four companies posted gains compared with a year ago, with GM up 31 per cent, Ford Motor Co. up 16 per cent, Chrysler Corp. up 8 per cent and American Motors up 1 per cent.

Meanwhile, the Commerce Department said inventories of the nation's businesses declined by $26 million in December and fell a total of $5.5 billion during all of 1975. In 1974, inventories increased $46.6 billion.

A decline in inventories had been considered essential in helping to end the nation's recession, although it also reflected the low state of production in the economy.

DC-3 Donated To Ohio U Center

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has donated a Douglas DC-3 to Ohio University's Avionics Engineering Center.

The $171,000 airplane will be used in the center's work to make aviation safer and more efficient, according to Dr. Richard McFaland, director of avionics research.

The propeller-driven aircraft was used during World War II and is one of several being released by the Federal Aviation Administration to agencies which do federally supported research.

Flood Insurance For South Point

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Village of South Point in Lawrence County is eligible for flood insurance, the National Flood Insurers Association has announced.

Private insurance agents and brokers are authorized to offer flood insurance to residential and nonresidential property owners in the area, the NFIA said.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Feb. 16, the 47th day of 1976. There are 319 days left in the year. George Washington's birthday is observed today.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1959, Fidel Castro was sworn in as the Premier of Cuba.

On this date: In 1804, a force of American servicemen under Lieut. Stephen Decatur slipped into the North African port of Tripoli and burned a U.S. Navy frigate which had been captured by pirates.

In 1846, the first Texas state legislature met in Austin.

In 1871, the Franco-Prussian War ended in a defeat for France.

In 1862, during the Civil War, some 15,000 Confederate troops surrendered at Fort Donelson in Tennessee.

In 1918, the English port of Dover was bombed by a German submarine during World War I.

In 1967, 13 American helicopters were shot down in fighting over South Vietnam.

Ten years ago: The World Council of Churches urged the U.S. to halt bombing in North Vietnam and the North Vietnamese to stop infiltrating South Vietnam.

Five years ago: U.S. Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird predicted difficult days ahead in the South Vietnamese drive to cut Communist supply lines in Laos.

One year ago: U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko opened diplomatic talks in Geneva.

Today's birthday: British director John Schlesinger is 50 years old.

Thought for today: Sin and dandelions are very much alike. To get rid of them is a lifetime fight, and you never quite win it — William Allen White, American writer, 1868-1944.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, an American military report to the Continental Congress from Georgia listed the problem of defending a long sea coast full of harbors and inlets, and the difficulty of guarding the Southern borders from incursions from Florida.

AP Newsman George Dell Found Dead

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The funeral for Columbus Associated Press newsman George Dell has been scheduled for Wednesday in Newark.

A preliminary autopsy Sunday failed to reveal the cause of death, Franklin County authorities reported.

Dell, 35, was found dead Saturday at his home in suburban Westerville by his mother, Mrs. G. W. Dell of Newark. She said he was in bed and wearing pajamas. Dell lived alone.

Dell, a native of Newark, joined The AP in Columbus in 1970. In recent years he had worked as overnight news supervisor.

Dell was a journalism graduate of Ohio State University in 1962. He began work with the Newark Advocate in 1962. He served in the Peace Corps from 1967 until 1969 and returned to The Advocate in 1969 and remained there until joining The AP.

Dell's father died several years ago and he had no brothers or sisters.

"And to think that's the hand I asked your father for."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

What is meant by a "frozen biopsy"? Miss M. W., R.I.

Dear Miss W.: All tissue removed during surgery is sent to the laboratory for microscopic examination. This is a firm rule in all hospitals and in all doctors' offices.

Only in this way can unusual cells be recognized. This tissue is stained with special dyes and examined under the microscope.

A report of this "biopsy," or tissue examination, is usually complete in three days.

Sometimes during an operation, surgeons may remove a portion of tissue or tumor and need an immediate examination to determine the further extent of their surgery.

This tissue is frozen and examined at once. The report of this "frozen section biopsy" is particularly valuable in operations on the breast.

Are glycerin suppositories for constipation dangerous if used for a long time? Mr. H. G., Fla.

Dear Mr. G.: The long-term use of suppositories, enemas and laxatives should be avoided. There are better means of retraining the bowel.

Well-regulated diets and plenty of water each day (unless the doctor advises against it) can break the cathartic habit.

Glycerin suppositories are probably the least treacherous of all the methods to relieve constipation. But even these relatively innocuous substances can keep the bowel from doing its natural work and can establish a dependency on the suppositories.

Are some antibiotics stronger than others? Miss T. H., Iowa

Dear Miss H.: One antibiotic is not stronger than another. It is the amount that makes the difference.

The frequency with which an antibiotic or any other drug is taken will, of course, increase its potency.

Antibiotics are specifically chosen to combat a particular germ, or bacteria. Sometimes an antibiotic is arbitrarily chosen. At other times, the antibiotic is chosen after a culture indicates that it will be effective in destroying a particular germ.

Anthrax Bacteria In Balls Of Yarn

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky health officials are trying to track down shipments of yarn imported from Pakistan and sold in Kentucky that may be contaminated with potentially fatal anthrax bacteria.

The 4-ounce balls of yarn, usually packaged in plastic bags, were imported from Sarfraz Brothers of Lahore, Pakistan, and distributed in this country by Creative Hand Weavers of California and Tahki Imports Limited of New York, according to Dr. C. Hernandez, chief of the Kentucky Health Department's Preventive Services Division.

The yarn apparently has been sold to at least three college art departments and several handicraft stores in Kentucky.

Joe Fitzpatrick, chairman of the University of Kentucky art department, said his department received a call from health officials late Friday afternoon.

Fitzpatrick said two areas where the yarn in question might be stored were sealed off and that health officials had been asked to examine the yarn today.

He said the school was alerting persons who had taken courses that would involve handling the yarn.

Hernandez said art departments at Kentucky State University in Frankfort and the University of Louisville received some of the yarn, and that some was sold to the Berea College Store, Studio John's in Lexington, Nandee Yarn in Middletown and the Sagittarius Shop and the Astro Strodel Studio in Berea.

"I have no idea how big a problem it is," Hernandez said. "We have some places where we have reason to believe this yarn has been delivered. We are alerting everyone because I believe we must."

"I'm just trying not to scare people today," he said, "but if you happen to touch it (the yarn), it is very dangerous."

Nursing Home Aid Probe Eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson called on the General Assembly Friday to reexamine state aid to nursing homes after learning that a welfare department official had given nursing homes the option of raising private patients rates or asking for less state aid.

Under federal law, state payments to Medicaid patients may not exceed the rate charged private patients.

Ferguson said in a statement the option was offered in a letter from John P. Nippes, chief of the welfare department's bureau of fiscal review.

He said persons who have purchased the yarn should immediately wrap it in two layers of plastic bags and call local health department officials.

One death from anthrax, apparently contracted from the yarn, has been reported in California. Officials said no cases have been reported in Kentucky.

When the disease affects the skin, it is characterized by blisters at the site of the infection, Hernandez said, and untreated infections may lead to blood poisoning.

Used His Feet And Imagination

LOS ANGELES (AP) — According to at least one police officer in Los Angeles, jaywalkers must be the most imaginative offenders of the law. When the officer arrested one man for jaywalking, the straight-faced offender insisted he thought the "Don't Walk" sign was an advertisement for the bus company.

(Location-City, County, State-of Project)

$55,000.00

Estimated Cost of Project

It has been determined that such request for release of funds will not constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment and, accordingly, the above-named Village has decided not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (PL 91-190).

The reasons for such decision not to prepare such statement are as follows:

No Adverse Environmental Effects Were Found and There Are Several Beneficial Environmental Effects.

An Environmental Review Record respecting the within project has been made by the above-named Village which documents the environmental review of the project and more fully sets forth the reasons why such Statement is not required. This Environmental Review Record is on file at the above address and is available for public examination and copying, upon request, at 5020 E. Street, South Bloomfield, Ohio 43103 between the hours of 9:00 A.M. and 12:00 Noon.

No further environmental review of such project is proposed to be conducted, prior to the request for release of Federal funds.

All interested agencies, groups, and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments for consideration by the Village. Such written comments should be received at Village of South Bloomfield, 9223 W. Union, Ashtville, Ohio 43103 on or before March 5, 1976. All such comments so received will be considered and the Village will not request the release of Federal funds or take any administrative action on the within project prior to the date specified in the preceding sentence.

A Page Of Opinion

Not Necessarily So

Experts in most fields are much better at telling us what transpired in the past than in predicting the future. That goes double in projections of energy consumption a quarter century from now. Such a projection has come from the U.S. Bureau of Mines. The point is to give some idea of the energy consumption in the United States by the year 2000.

Current levels of consumption will more than double in the next 24 years, or so the experts project, and the emphasis will have turned to coal and nuclear energy for fuels. As for petroleum, the experts predict natural gas consumption will continue to climb, domestic oil production will increase by 30 per cent — but oil consumption will grow by almost 70 per cent.

If that forecast should come to pass it would mean a far heavier reliance on imported oil than the current level of about 40 per cent. It also means the chances of energy independence any time in the next quarter century is virtually nil.

But those predictions are based on assumptions which at least are questionable. They presume energy conservation will be all but abandoned, the supply of imported oil will be available in whatever volume the nation demands and at a price the consumer is willing to pay.

The projections also are based on settlements somehow of the many environmental roadblocks which have stifled development of coal and nuclear industries. They also appear to assume there will be no major international disruptions in world oil supplies such as the Arab oil embargo which followed the last Middle East war.

All of that adds up to a lot of supposition.

Doing Penance

By JIM BISHOP

Some men act rough and rude to prove to themselves that they are manly. Others exude an aura of masculinity. My old man was all man all the way. And yet he could admire a bouquet of flowers, a new dress, and once I saw him weep while watching "The Student Prince."

He was a big, broad man with a handsome Irish kisser. He may have been somewhat of a dandy because he loved to dress well. He pressed his own blue suits in the kitchen; he shined his black shoes in the laundry. His police uniform had brass buttons and gold bars which were polished daily.

I asked him if he was ever afraid. "Yes," he said. "I was in two gun fights when you were little. I was all right in the action but afterward I shook so hard I almost dropped my revolver."

He admired stout women, whom he called "handsome." He loved classical music and studied trumpet and piano. When he was young, he played semi-professional baseball and soccer. He was also 220-pound low hurdles champion of the National Guard.

He played poker with the men and came home drunk. He bathed and showered before breakfast and enjoyed salt mackerel and toast and tea. He purchased a big medical encyclopedia and, in four nights of reading, acquired two of every three diseases described. The book went into the garbage can.

Anyone can look good when he's on top. Big John looked good doing penance. He had strong religious feelings and feared God's wrath until the day he died.

And yet, Big John made one monumental mistake. He left my mother. He had given it a lot of thought. Mother was old-fashioned and plains. As one year of marriage succeeded another, he hunted additional knowledge. Jenny had no interests other than the care of husband and family and home.

He was gone 16 years. Adequate support money arrived every two weeks. He visited in the evenings to discuss homework with three children and family problems. My mother spoke through us to him: "Tell your father that the rent is going up $5 next month." Thin-lipped, growling, he would say, "Tell your mother I'll take care of it."

We were all married when he returned home. Big John wore a lot of pride. It was difficult for him to get on his knees, even figuratively, to appeal to my mother for forgiveness.

But it was this, I feel, that made him a man. He did it. He begged to be taken back. Jenny said she'd think about it. She had never been in love with another man; she was suspicious of the gender. She took him back. Deep in middle age, they started life together. He retired from the police department and got a position as credit manager of a group of weekly newspapers. He was out in his car all day, winter and summer, collecting overdue debts.

He tried hard to make everything up to her. Big John didn't know it, but his time of trial was coming. Jenny developed diabetes. Here was no oral insulin. It was he who handled the needle; he matched the urine to the color chart.

All the beautiful music of life was slipping behind him. She was losing her sight. She leaned on a dollar bamboo cane. The eyes glistened slightly.

He saw Jenny as she was — an old lady with wispy hair and custardy skin. She saw him, in her darkness, as the young, strong, handsome fella she had married.

Big John never complained. For years he dressed her in the morning, made her breakfast, turned her radio on to the soap serials, and put the hand on a phone so she could call for help if she needed it. "If anyone rings the doorbell," he would say, "don't answer."

He worked twice as hard all day because there were younger men who could work better and faster. At night he parked his car, wheezed a little, and hurried to the apartment to wash up and make dinner.

She developed whims and irritations. Big John knuckled under to everything. He learned to use a vacuum cleaner, to dust, to wash dishes. He shampooed her hair. When they went on automobile rides, he drove and described the scenery at the same time.

She died at 73. He died at 85. Once, in a burst of confidence, he said, "I expect to be punished for what I did." I shook my head. "I don't think so," I said . . .

WASHINGTON (AP) — The output of the nation's industry increased for the ninth consecutive month in January, another indication that last month was a good one for the economy.

An increase in industrial production should mean more jobs became available in the nation's factories, mines and utilities.

The Federal Reserve Board said Friday that industrial production rose by seven-tenths of 1 per cent in January and six-tenths of 1 per cent in December.

Production of consumer goods, such as home appliances and television sets, was strong, although the Fed noted a slight reduction in auto output.

The gains in industrial production followed a big drop in unemployment to 7.8 per cent during the month and reports that wholesale prices were stable for the third consecutive month in January — indicating continuing improvement in the nation's inflation problems.

The Labor Department said in its wholesale price report Friday that prices of farm products, including most foods, declined 2.8 per cent in January, the third straight month of decline.

The Federal Reserve Board said its industrial production index for January stood at 119.3 of the 1967 average of 100. That represented an 8.5 per cent increase in production since the recession low last April.

Auto production dropped slightly to an annual rate of 7.6 million units, down from 7.8 million units in December. However, the board said it expects auto production to rise to the eight million unit level in February.

In Detroit, the nation's four auto companies said domestic car sales were up 21 per cent in early February from depressed year-earlier levels, when cash rebates were offered to stimulate an anemic market.

Industry sales remained down 14 per cent from the same 1973 period, before the industry plunged into a deep two-year slump.

All four companies posted gains compared with a year ago, with GM up 31 per cent, Ford Motor Co. up 16 per cent, Chrysler Corp. up 8 per cent and American Motors up 1 per cent.

Meanwhile, the Commerce Department said inventories of the nation's businesses declined by $526 million in December and fell a total of $5.5 billion during all of 1975. In 1974, inventories increased $46.6 billion.

A decline in inventories had been considered essential in helping to end the nation's recession, although it also reflected the low state of production in the economy.

DC-3 Donated To Ohio U Center

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has donated a Douglas DC-3 to Ohio University's Avionics Engineering Center.

The $171,000 airplane will be used in the center's work to make aviation safer and more efficient, according to Dr. Richard McFaland, director of avionics research.

The propeller-driven aircraft was used during World War II and is one of several being released by the Federal Aviation Administration to agencies which do federally supported research.

Flood Insurance For South Point

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Village of South Point in Lawrence County is eligible for flood insurance, the National Flood Insurers Association has announced.

Private insurance agents and brokers are authorized to offer flood insurance to residential and nonresidential property owners in the area, the NFIA said.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Feb. 16, the 47th day of 1976. There are 319 days left in the year. George Washington's birthday is observed today.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1959, Fidel Castro was sworn in as the Premier of Cuba.

On this date: In 1804, a force of American servicemen under Lieut. Stephen Decatur slipped into the North African port of Tripoli and burned a U.S. Navy frigate which had been captured by pirates. In 1846, the first Texas state legislature met in Austin.

In 1871, the Franco-Prussian War ended in a defeat for France.

In 1862, during the Civil War, some 15,000 Confederate troops surrendered at Fort Donelson in Tennessee.

In 1918, the English port of Dover was bombed by a German submarine during World War I.

In 1967, 13 American helicopters were shot down in fighting over South Vietnam.

Ten years ago: The World Council of Churches urged the U.S. to halt bombing in North Vietnam and the North Vietnamese to stop infiltrating South Vietnam.

Five years ago: U.S. Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird predicted difficult days ahead in the South Vietnamese drive to cut Communist supply lines in Laos.

One year ago: U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko opened diplomatic talks in Geneva.

Today's birthday: British director John Schlesinger is 50 years old.

Thought for today: Sin and dandelions are very much alike. To get rid of them is a lifetime fight, and you never quite win it — William Allen White, American writer, 1868-1944.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, an American military report to the Continental Congress from Georgia listed the problem of defending a long sea coast full of harbors and inlets, and the difficulty of guarding the Southern borders from incursions from Florida.

AP Newsman George Dell Found Dead

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The funeral for Columbus Associated Press newsman George Dell has been scheduled for Wednesday in Newark.

A preliminary autopsy Sunday failed to reveal the cause of death, Franklin County authorities reported.

Dell, 35, was found dead Saturday at his home in suburban Westerville by his mother, Mrs. G. W. Dell of Newark. She said he was in bed and wearing pajamas. Dell lived alone.

Dell, a native of Newark, joined The AP in Columbus in 1970. In recent years he had worked as overnight news supervisor.

Dell was a journalism graduate of Ohio State University in 1962. He began work with the Newark Advocate in 1962. He served in the Peace Corps from 1967 until 1969 and returned to The Advocate in 1969 and remained there until joining The AP.

Dell's father died several years ago and he had no brothers or sisters.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

What is meant by a "frozen biopsy"? Miss M. W., R.I.

Dear Miss W.: All tissue removed during surgery is sent to the laboratory for microscopic examination. This is a firm rule in all hospitals and in all doctors' offices.

Only in this way can unusual cells be recognized. This tissue is stained with special dyes and examined under the microscope.

A report of this "biopsy," or tissue examination, is usually complete in three days.

Sometimes during an operation, surgeons may remove a portion of tissue or tumor and need an immediate examination to determine the further extent of their surgery.

This tissue is frozen and examined at once. The report of this "frozen section biopsy" is particularly valuable in operations on the breast.

Are glycerin suppositories for constipation dangerous if used for a long time? Mr. H. G., Fla.

Dear Mr. G.: The long-term use of suppositories, enemas and laxatives should be avoided. There are better means of retraining the bowel.

Well-regulated diets and plenty of water each day (unless the doctor advises against it) can break the cathartic habit.

Glycerin suppositories are probably the least treacherous of all the methods to relieve constipation. But even these relatively innocuous substances can keep the bowel from doing its natural work and can establish a dependency on the suppositories.

Are some antibiotics stronger than others? Miss T. H., Iowa

Dear Miss H.: One antibiotic is not stronger than another. It is the amount that makes the difference.

The frequency with which an antibiotic or any other drug is taken will, of course, increase its potency.

Antibiotics are specifically chosen to combat a particular germ, or bacteria. Sometimes an antibiotic is arbitrarily chosen. At other times, the antibiotic is chosen after a culture indicates that it will be effective in destroying a particular germ.

Anthrax Bacteria In Balls Of Yarn

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky health officials are trying to track down shipments of yarn imported from Pakistan and sold in Kentucky that may be contaminated with potentially fatal anthrax bacteria.

The 4-ounce balls of yarn, usually packaged in plastic bags, were imported from Sarfraz Brothers of Lahore, Pakistan, and distributed in this country by Creative Hand Weavers of California and Tahki Imports Limited of New York, according to Dr. C. Hernandez, chief of the Kentucky Health Department's Preventive Services Division.

The yarn apparently has been sold to at least three college art departments and several handicraft stores in Kentucky.

Joe Fitzpatrick, chairman of the University of Kentucky art department, said his department received a call from health officials late Friday afternoon.

Fitzpatrick said two areas where the yarn in question might be stored were sealed off and that health officials had been asked to examine the yarn today.

He said the school was alerting persons who had taken courses that would involve handling the yarn.

Hernandez said art departments at Kentucky State University in Frankfort and the University of Louisville received some of the yarn, and that some was sold to the Berea College Store, Studio John's in Lexington, Nandee Yarn in Middletown and the Sagittarius Shop and the Astro Strodel Studio in Berea.

"I have no idea how big a problem it is," Hernandez said. "We have some places where we have reason to believe this yarn has been delivered. We are alerting everyone because I believe we must."

"I'm just trying not to scare people today," he said, "but if you happen to touch it (the yarn), it is very dangerous."

Nursing Home Aid Probe Eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson called on the General Assembly Friday to reexamine state aid to nursing homes after official had given nursing homes the option of raising private patients rates or asking for less state aid.

Under federal law, state payments to Medicaid patients may not exceed the rate charged private patients.

Ferguson said in a statement the option was offered in a letter from John P. Nippes, chief of the welfare department's bureau of fiscal review.

He said persons who have purchased the yarn should immediately wrap it in two layers of plastic bags and call local health department officials.

One death from anthrax, apparently contracted from the yarn, has been reported in California. Officials said no cases have been reported in Kentucky.

When the disease affects the skin, it is characterized by blisters at the site of the infection, Hernandez said, and untreated infections may lead to blood poisoning.

Used His Feet And Imagination

LOS ANGELES (AP) — According to at least one police officer in Los Angeles, jaywalkers must be the most imaginative offenders of the law. When the officer arrested one man for jaywalking, the straight-faced offender insisted he thought the "Don't Walk" sign was an advertisement for the bus company.

NOTICE OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT EFFECT ON THE ENVIRONMENT

Date: February 17, 1976
Village of South Bloomfield
9523 W. Union
Ashville, Ohio 43103 983-2541

TO ALL INTERESTED AGENCIES, GROUPS AND PERSONS:
The above named Village proposes to request the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to release Federal funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (PL 93-383) to be used for the following project:

South Bloomfield Community Park (Project Title or Name)
Provide Recreational Facilities (Purpose or Nature of Project)
South Bloomfield-Pickaway County, Ohio (Location-City County State of Project)
$55,000.00 (Estimated Cost of Project)

It has been determined that such request for release of funds will not constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment and, accordingly, the above named Village has decided not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (PL 91-190).

The reasons for this decision not to prepare such statement are as follows:
No Adverse Environmental Effects Were Found and There Are Several Beneficial Environmental Effects.

An Environmental Review Record respecting the within project has been made by the above named Village which documents the environmental review of the project and more fully sets forth the reasons why such statement is not required. This Environmental Review Record is on file at the above address and is available for public examination and copying, upon request, at 820 E. Street, South Bloomfield, Ohio 43103 between the hours of 9:00 A.M. and 12:00 Noon.

No further environmental review of such project is proposed to be conducted, prior to the request for release of Federal funds.

All interested agencies, groups, and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments for consideration by the Village. Such written comments should be received at Village of South Bloomfield, 9523 W. Union, Ashville, Ohio 43103 on or before March 5, 1976. All such comments or requests will be considered and the Village may not require the release of Federal funds or take any administrative action on the within project prior to the date specified in the preceding sentence.

Merger Sought For Organizations

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Rep. Allan E. Norris has called for merger of the Legislative Reference Bureau with the Legislative Services Commission.

The 60-member commission has taken over most of the five-member bureau's services, Norris said. He added that Joseph J. Sommer, director of the bureau at $24,000 a year, has been named clerk of the Ohio House of Representatives.

Sommer said while both organizations draft bills and provide research for legislators, the bureau also turns out special projects and could not be abolished.

Campus Notes

Shelley May, 616 Tarlton Road and Cathy J. Thompson, 335 E. Main St., were among those Marietta College students to be named to the fall semester Dean's List.

Miss May is a 1972 graduate of Logan Elm High School and is currently a senior at Marietta. Miss Thompson, a junior at Marietta, is a 1973 graduate of Circleville High School. She made all A's at Marietta last semester.

Students attaining Dean's List ratings had to maintain a "B" average in at least 12 semester hours of course work.

A newly formed student council for special events at Purdue University is working with the Office of University Relations to communicate student perspectives of Purdue to campus visitors.

Named to that council from this area was Andy Hoffman, Route 2.

Robin Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Martin, 428 Glenmont Court, has been named to the Dean's List at Wittenberg University for the fall term of the 1975-76 academic year.

The Dean's List honors fulltime students at Wittenberg who earn academic averages of 3.66 or better.

Ohio Banks Sue Over Development

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two Ohio banks are suing in federal court for more than $6 million in damages in connection with the unfinished Candlewood lake development in Morrow County.

City National Bank & Trust Co. of Columbus and Farmers Savings & Trust Co. of Mansfield brought the action against Whetstone Development Inc. in care of the United States Corporation Co. of Columbus and the former U.S.F. Investors of Atlanta.

The suit says Whetstone borrowed about $4 million from the Georgia firm, giving it mortgages on Candlewood Lake property. The banks bought 205 promissory notes and assignments of mortgages before discovering the Atlanta firm still held the mortgages.

Whetstone halted work on the project in December 1974.

COMPARE OUR STATEMENT WITH YOUR STATEMENT.

Easy BalanceSM checking. You won't find anything like it at any other bank around.

Here's our new Easy Balance checking account statement.

Compare it with your bank's statement. You'll find there's really no comparison. Ours makes balancing faster, easier than ever before.

That's Easy Balance

checking. A simple statement that says it all, at no extra cost.

If you don't have your checking account with us, we can't think of a better reason to change.

Checks are listed in check-number order. So you don't have to sort through a pile of cancelled checks. Just compare your checkbook directly with the statement.

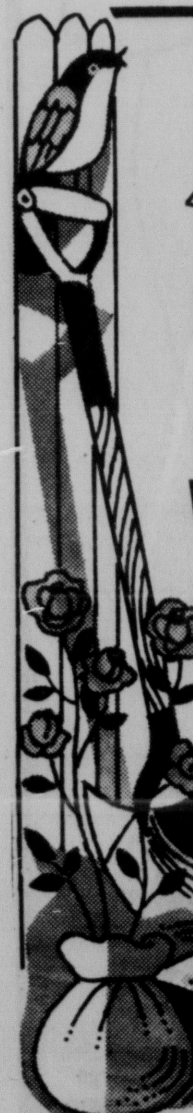

Each transaction is clearly described. So you don't have to figure out any confusing abbreviations or codes.

Each transaction is on a line by itself. So you don't have to scramble a puzzle of numbers.

Transactions are grouped by type. Deposits first, Then checks. And charges, if any. So you don't have to search high and low for a particular transaction.

Regular checking account customers who order personalized checks automatically get all the features of Easy Balance checking. However, listing of checks in check-number order cannot be provided to special, thrift account customers.

Merger Sought For Organizations

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Rep. Allan E. Norris has called for merger of the Legislative Reference Bureau with the Legislative Services Commission.

The 60-member commission has taken over most of the five-member bureau's services, Norris said. He added that Joseph J. Sommer, director of the bureau at $24,000 a year, has been named clerk of the Ohio House of Representatives.

Sommer said while both organizations draft bills and provide research for legislators, the bureau also turns out special projects and could not be abolished.

Campus Notes

Shelley May, 616 Tarlton Road and Cathy J. Thompson, 335 E. Main St., were among those Marietta College students to be named to the fall semester Dean's List.

Miss May is a 1972 graduate of Logan Elm High School and is currently a senior at Marietta. Miss Thompson, a junior at Marietta, is a 1973 graduate of Circleville High School. She made all A's at Marietta last semester.

Students attaining Dean's List ratings had to maintain a "B" average in at least 12 semester hours of course work.

A newly formed student council for special events at Purdue University is working with the Office of University Relations to communicate student perspectives of Purdue to campus visitors.

Named to that council from this area was Andy Hoffman, Route 2.

Robin Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Martin, 428 Glenmont Court, has been named to the Dean's List at Wittenberg University for the fall term of the 1975-76 academic year.

The Dean's List honors fulltime students at Wittenberg who earn academic averages of 3.66 or better.

Ohio Banks Sue Over Development

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two Ohio banks are suing in federal court for more than $6 million in damages in connection with the unfinished Candlewood lake development in Morrow County.

City National Bank & Trust Co. of Columbus and Farmers Savings & Trust Co. of Mansfield brought the action against Whetstone Development Inc. in care of the United States Corporation Co. of Columbus and the former U.S.F. Investors of Atlanta.

The suit says Whetstone borrowed about $4 million from the Georgia firm, giving it mortgages on Candlewood Lake property. The banks bought 205 promissory notes and assignments of mortgages before discovering the Atlanta firm still held the mortgages.

Whetstone halted work on the project in December 1974.

Miss Karen Sue Clifton Bride Of Curtis Lee Fannin

MR. AND MRS. CURTIS LEE FANNIN

Miss Karen Sue Clifton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Clifton, 289 W. Main St., Ashville, and Mr. Curtis Lee Fannin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emery Fannin, Route 2, Orient, were united in marriage 2:30 p.m., Jan. 24, in Circleville First Baptist Church.

The Rev. T. Milton Duke performed the double ring ceremony before the altar flanked with two candelabra holding blue tapers decorated with daisies, carnations and baby's breath. Daisies, carnations and baby's breath arrangements graced the altar table along with the unity candle.

Mr. Don Metzler, organist, presented a program of music preceding the ceremony and accompanied Mrs. Dave Huffer, soloist, as she sang "We've Only Just Begun," "Where There Is Love" and "Wedding Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father and mother, selected for her wedding a formal length gown of white dacron polyester organza. The fitted bodice featured a bib effect enhanced with cotton venise lace, high neckline and bishop sleeves trimmed with matching lace. The slightly gathered skirt with acetate taffeta lining, ended with a deep flounce topped with lace. The bride's tiered veil of illusion, worn madonna style was edged in lace and flowed softly to chapel length. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses, carnations, daisies, stephanotis, ivy and baby's breath. She wore pearl earrings and a teardrop diamond necklace, gifts of the bridegroom.

Maid of honor was Mrs. David Groves, sister of the bridegroom. She was attired in a light blue floor length dress with a short dark blue velvet jacket and carried a bouquet of white football mums and baby's breath tied with blue ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Miss Kathey Clifton, the bride's sister; Mrs. David Mace and Miss Gloria J. Azbell, cousins of the bride. They were gowned as the honor attendant and carried matching bouquets. The maid of honor and bridesmaids all wore light blue picture hats. Their blue starfire necklaces were gifts of the bride.

Miss Holly Bausum was flower girl and Master Matthew Hohman served as ring bearer.

Mr. David Groves, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, performed the duties of best man. Ushers were Mr. David Ballard, Mr. Joe Rush and Mr. Ronnie Clifton, brother of the bride.

The bride's mother was attired in a mint green floor length gown with matching jacket and accessories. The bridegroom's mother chose a powder blue floor length gown with matching accessories. Corsages for both mothers were of white carnations.

A reception in the Fellowship Hall of the church immediately followed the ceremony. Hostesses were Mrs. Richard Clifton, Mrs. Ronnie Clifton, Mrs. Richard Riddle and Miss Lissa Rihl.

For a wedding trip to Florida, where they visited both the east and west coasts, the bride wore black slacks with a black and red print blouse and red and black accessories. Her corsage was of red roses. The couple now resides at Route 2, Ashville.

The bride is a graduate of Teays Valley High School and Columbus Business University. She is employed by Brown Tractor and Implement Co. in Ashville.

The bridegroom, also a graduate of Teays Valley High School, is engaged in farming.

Guests at the wedding were from Ashville, Columbus, Norwalk, Xenia, Port Clinton, Grove City, Lancaster, Orient, Commercial Point, Cardington and Carroll, Ohio, and Jacksonville, Fla.

The lesson will be on quilting. Members are asked to bring a quilt for display.

Calvary Church Circles Combine For Meeting

Morning and Evening Circles of Calvary United Methodist Church met recently in the church annex for the February meeting. Mrs. Rosemary Flowers, president, presided at the business session which she began with prayer.

Members were urged to attend the "Preaching Mission" scheduled for the latter part of February. Mrs. Marjorie DeLong stressed need for articles to supplement the food pantry and that she is continuing to collect articles to be sent to Otterbein Home.

Mrs. Ruth Goeller reported the new reading course books are now available and the record may be found in the 1967 yearbook.

It was agreed to send a cash gift to Guatemala to help victims of the recent earthquake disaster.

Soul Searchers Class voted to help in paying for the two lights recently installed on the outside of the church.

Program leaders, Mrs. Judy Cooper, Mrs. Cenith Millirons and Mrs. Karen Amey, presented a portrayal of lonely and displaced persons using the theme "And All These Things May Be Added."

Members sang "Have Thine Own Way, Lord" and Mrs. Millirons presented a reading titled "The Gift And The Giver." The closing prayer was by Mrs. Amey.

A dessert course in the valentine theme was served by Mrs. Evelyn DeLong, Mrs. Martha Davis and Mrs. Eileen Osborn.

Jill Blue Speaker At Hedges Chapel

Women of Hedges Chapel United Methodist Church met Thursday at the church. Rosemary Plum was in charge of devotions.

Jill Blue, an exchange student from Teays Valley High School, showed slides and talked of her visit to Colombia, South America. Hostesses were Elaine Winter and Erma Hines.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

More Tip-Offs On Spouse Slip-Ups

DEAR ABBY: I, too, received an anonymous telephone call concerning my husband. It went something like this:
The phone rang in my office in our small-town, weekly newspaper, and the woman who called asked my identity and then said: "Is your daughter home?"
"Which one?" I asked. "I have three."
"The one who's a nurse!"
"A nurse? Why do you ask?"
"Well, I just saw your husband drive by Mt. Pleasant and Roosevelt, and he had a young woman dressed in white with him!"
I laughed (I couldn't help it), then she banged down the receiver.
The small cafe next to us had only two girls working there (in mid-afternoon), and one of them had caught her hand in a mixer. The other girl asked if one of us would please drive the injured girl to the emergency hospital, and it was easier for my husband to get away than it was for me, so he drove her there.
What did that woman expect to gain except to make me unhappy?
I'm glad I laughed. It must have taken the wind out of her sails.
RUTH IN IOWA
DEAR RUTH: I happen to agree with you. But read on for a letter from someone who disagrees with both of us.
DEAR ABBY: When I read your advice to the woman who had received an anonymous call telling her that her husband was having an affair, I became furious. You told that woman that the caller was probably a miserable person trying to make others miserable, and the wife should forget about the call!
Well, Abby, let me tell my story: I, too, was married to a fine, professional man for a number of years. I, too, received an anonymous phone call telling me that my husband was having an affair with his secretary. I, too, was dumbfounded. However, instead of forgetting it, I did my own investigating and discovered that my husband was in fact dating his secretary-and had been for some time.

In my opinion, the person who informed me was not a "miserable person" trying to make me miserable. She was simply a friend who was trying to tip me off.
I think it is absolutely disgusting that the wife is always the last to know about her husband's extracurricular activities. I'd rather be miserable knowing the truth about my husband than live in "ignorant bliss" with a man who makes a mockery out of his marriage vows.
THROWING THE BUM OUT
DEAR ABBY: My 86-year-old mother always starts up an argument with me whenever we have company. I am a nervous person and flare up quickly, and before you know it, there is a big battle raging.
This happened again over the holidays, and my married children who were visiting me at the time packed up their kids and put their luggage in the car, and it was "Adios Amigos!"
This was very humiliating to me, Abby. It's happened before, but I can't seem to prevent it. Don't tell me to lock Grandma in her room or send her down the basement. She won't go.
WIDOW IN INDIANA
DEAR WIDOW: Has it ever occurred to you that your elderly mother may be emotionally or mentally unstable? It takes two to battle. Whether your mother is right or wrong, to keep the peace, keep quiet, and you'll have your problem solved.

Legislative Report

By MYRL SHOEMAKER,
State Representative
88th House District

By a vote of 75 to 22, the Ohio House of Representatives this week approved House Bill 920, a real property tax relief package. The tax relief measure now awaits review and consideration in the Senate.
House Bill 920 would, when enacted, reduce the abrupt residential property tax increase resulting from inflation. Real property taxes are based on the value of the property in question and as inflation drives property values upward, the taxes increase also.
The bill provides for tax credits to offset real property tax increases that would have occurred because of inflationary increases in property values. The bill's sponsor, Rep. John Johnson or Orrville, emphasized that enactment of the legislation would assist in stabilizing real property tax bills.
Because not all of Ohio's counties have completed reappraisal and have experienced the abrupt property tax increases accompanying reappraisal, there would be two types of tax adjustments under House Bill 920. One would be a temporary adjustment for only those counties that have completed the reappraisal, the other would be a permanent annual adjustment that would be implemented after all eighty-eight counties completed reappraisal in 1977.
Basically, both adjustments would be tax credits reducing the annual taxes due from real property in proportion to the increase in total real property valuation experienced by the taxing district that tax year. In other words, as inflation increased property values, the increased real property tax bills would be reduced accordingly.
Counteracting the revenue loss of the tax adjustments on real property would be a slight tax increase of the tangible personal property tax which is levied on business equipment and inventories. In the past, tangible personal property tax was reduced, increasing the tax burden on real property taxes. H.H. No. 920 would restore needed balance to the tax burden so that both businessman and homeowner pay their fair share.

In other legislative floor action this week, the House voted to eliminate the geographic restrictions on the establishment of branch banks, passed legislation to bolster the ethics law, and approved legislation that would grant victims of juvenile theft the option to sue the juvenile's parents.

Meanwhile, the Ohio Senate voted this week to repeal Ohio's controversial reconstruction cost new (RCN) utility rate formula that allowed public utilities to base their rates and profits on the value of their properties and equipment as if they were new. The RCN repeal legislation, Senate Bill 94, contains an alternative formula that would base utility rates on the original cost of the utilities properties and equipment (original cost formula).
Replacement of the RCN formula is a high priority for the House of Representatives. The House Insurance, Utilities and Financial Institutions Committee has been studying H.B. No. 209, sponsored by Rep. Dennis Wojtanowski of Willoughby, legislation parallel to Senate Bill No. 34. House endorsement of the Senate's action in this matter will be considered in the near future.
Unfortunately, replacing the RCN formula with an original cost formula would not be likely to lower utility rates. It would, however, assist in arresting the exorbitant rate increases typical of the past few years.
Inexpensive energy is a thing of the past because of the depletion of known energy reserves and the increased costs of exploration for new reserves.

Schedule Hearing In Port Clinton

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Power Siting Commission has scheduled public hearings Feb. 17-18 in Port Clinton on the Toledo Edison Co. proposal to build two additional nuclear units at the Davis Besse Nuclear Power Plant site in Ottawa County.
Before construction can begin on the units, the company must obtain a certificate of environmental compatibility and public need, the OPSC said.

Anti-Smoking Drive Gaining

By CHERYL L. DEBES
Associated Press Writer

James Moore lit a cigarette, took a long drag and stepped aboard a subway train. Moments later, he was under arrest.

The next day, after spending a night in jail, he appeared in Branch 95 of Circuit Court of Cook County, commonly known as Smokers' Court.

Some 800 persons were arrested last year for lighting up on Chicago Transit Authority trains and buses, a petty offense punishable by fines of $50 to $300. Those like Moore who couldn't post $25 bond spent a night behind bars.

Similarly, tobacco smokers across the nation are encountering new restraints and stiffer penalties for indiscriminately indulging their habit.

An Associated Press survey shows that since mid-1973 nearly half the states in the country have enacted laws restricting smoking in public places. Although enforcement is normally lax, penalties range from token fines to 60 days in jail.

Federal regulations limit smoking on airlines and interstate buses and trains, while pending lawsuits seek to outlaw the nicotine habit at New Orleans' Superdome and Detroit's Pontiac Stadium.

Scores of restaurants provide separate seating for nonsmokers. Students at several colleges and universities have voted to ban the weed in classrooms. Some employers forbid smoking on the job.

Behind the curbs are a growing number of nonsmokers who say they are entitled to breathe smoke-free air.

"For years, smokers have been able to smoke wherever they wanted," says

Kare DeCavalcante, smoking and health consultant for the American Lung Association. "Now, we're trying to switch that around."

While Chicago's crackdown is unusually tough, the smoking arrests dramatize the change.

Before the city's smoking ordinance was toughened, said one law enforcement official, "smokers were treated like jaywalkers or spitters — they were virtually ignored."

Only a few years ago, the idea that nonsmokers constituted a silent majority whose rights were being denied was almost unheard of.

Miss DeCavalcante traces active participation in a nonsmokers' rights movement to "the 1972 surgeon general's report. It included the first hard, scientific facts on the effects of secondhand smoke.

"When Joe Citizen got wind of it, he said, 'Hey, that's me.' People who had always been bothered by smoke found out they weren't alone."

Evidence that simply breathing tobacco smoke may be physically harmful — "involuntary smoking" as it was called by one government report — led many nonsmokers to re-evaluate the habit they previously considered merely annoying.

Today, a proliferation of groups with such likely names as ASH — Action on Smoking and Health; GASP — Group Against Smokers' Pollution; and ANSR — Association for Nonsmokers' Rights — actively encourage nonsmokers to assert their right to breathe smokeless air.

Seniors Win Recognition At Symposium

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Eight high school seniors from five Ohio cities won recognition Saturday night at a Junior Science and Humanities Symposium in Columbus.

Top winner was Harlan Krumholz, Meadowdale High, Dayton, with a paper entitled "The effects of Dextran Sulfate 500 on Macrophage-mediated Resistance to Infection with Herpes Simplex Virus-1 in Mice." He will compete in the National Junior Science and Humanities Symposium this spring at Georgetown University in Washington.

Kathi Kapell of Walnut Hills High, Cincinnati, and James Murtagh, St. Francis DeSales, Toledo, won trips to the Bicentennial of America Science fair in Washington. This includes a two week trip with tours of Washington and New York.

Five students will get to the national symposium in Washington as Ohio delegates but will not present papers. They are Marie C. Cole, McAuley High, Toledo; Daniel Metzger, St. John's High, Toledo; Kim Nedelman, Springfield North High; Patrick McCormick, St. John's High, Toledo, and Patricia Wilson, Benjamin Logan High, Zanesville.

The first U. S. polygamy legislation was enacted July 1, 1862.

Byrd Sees Demos Win

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va. has predicted that "voters are going to save our country from divided leadership and put a Democrat in the White House in November".

He came up with WIN buttons."

Byrd called Harry S. Truman "our greatest president," and asked, "Can you see him wearing a WIN button?"

Byrd told a state convention of Ohio Young Democrats on Saturday that President Ford is a "nice guy that you wouldn't mind meeting behind the vegetable counter in the supermarket."

Byrd criticized Ford's economic policies. He said the State of The Union address offered no plan to combat unemployment.

"Ford was like a breath of fresh air when he replaced President Nixon," Byrd said. "But within 10 days he par-

25 YEARS SERVICE — Two employees of Circleville General Electric Lamp Plant recently completed 25 years of service and received awards from Ed Grigg, plant manager. They are Clarence Brown (left) and Charles Holbrook (right). Brown began his service with the company in the machine shop and presently holds the position of foreman. Holbrook began as a box taper and has been on mount maintenance since 1955.

Harsha Reports

BY WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
Sixth District Of Ohio

The Seal of the Federal Government carries a Latin motto which reads "E Pluribus Unum" and means in English, "one out of many". A more fitting motto on that seal might be "E Pluribus Minus", which means "less out of more".

That is a more appropriate description of the Washington bureaucracy and its work product. As Americans reflect today on thousands of federal rules and regulations promulgated by a growing number of regulatory agencies and commissions, the words of essayist Henry David Thoreau seem more applicable than ever.

He said, "That government is best which governs least." We have the facts to prove that a government which governs too much, governs poorly and costs consumers too much.

The average American is beginning to realize that he is paying a heavy price for the benefits of government regulation. Under the ostensible purpose of protecting the public interest, federal regulation has diminished and eliminated competition, caused increased consumer costs and contributed to double digit inflation which threatens the economic structure of this great country.

During the first 100 years of these United States, government limited itself pretty much to doing little more than the basics set forth in the Constitution. Our Founding Fathers' distrust of too much government was very obvious in the Declaration of Independence.

It was a different story in the second hundred years when the bureaucracy was born and began to grow by leaps and bounds. This was especially true in the forties, fifties, and sixties.

For many years, Congress and the Federal Government in general apparently believed that the only way to measure the "cost" of a particular federal program was to calculate its direct federal budgetary impact.

Nowhere did we calculate the indirect cost of governmental programs on consumers in terms of higher prices for the goods and services they buy. Thus, we invoked a "hidden tax" and shifted its payment from taxpayer to consumer. Nobody seemed to remember that the taxpayer and consumer happened to be the same person.

For example, it has been estimated that the safety standards of the Consumer Product Safety Commission could increase the cost of a $100 lawnmower to $186. The consumer, of course, pays this cost.

The price of a car has increased an average of $320 per vehicle because of safety and pollution regulations. The U.S. Council on Environmental Quality says that it will cost $112 billion to accomplish antipollution objectives from 1972 to 1981. Yet, there are many more regulations that are even more abusive and costly.

Small businessmen are particularly hard hit by a myriad of regulations. These are the people who are least likely to be able to afford outside help, and the most likely to need it.

Many of the departments and agencies have overlapping responsibilities. For instance, at least 25 bureaus, services, and offices in a dozen different departments and agencies support research in water pollution.

Congress must strengthen its "oversight" function. We cannot continue the careless practice of authorizing and funding new programs and writing new laws with little, if any regard as to what their impact might be, how they would be implemented, or how effective they would be.

Congress, through its committee system, must begin keeping a tight rein on every program, agency, and law it has approved. When inadequacies are found, changes must be made. When duplication is found, programs must be combined or eliminated. When congressional intent is ignored by bureaucrats, regulations must be amended. And when a problem has been solved, or a need met, agencies or bureaus must be dissolved.

Some movement has been made in this direction. As a result of last year's committee reform in the House, six of the 22 House committees now have oversight subcommittees charged with the sole responsibility of reviewing and overseeing the legislation and programs approved by their respective committees.

More government does not necessarily mean better government, but can actually mean government subject to, and capable of, abuse because of its very pervasiveness.

We can now see how "E Pluribus Minus" fits our situation today. We have learned the hard way that the costs of federal regulation far exceed the benefits.

Parents Charged In Fatal Blaze

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The parents of two children who died in a fire have been charged with a felony: endangering children, police said.

Bond was set at $2,000 for Mrs. Delores Love and at $1,000 for Jason Boyd in municipal court.

Wallace Love, 1, and Winston Love, 4, had been left unattended for about 45 minutes before the fire Monday that took their lives, police said.

Heart Disease Major Expense For Industry

Business and industry in the U.S. will lose about 52 million man-days of production in 1976 as a result of heart and blood vessel diseases, according to Bob McKelvey, Pickaway County Heart Fund chairman.

The lost wages and medical expenses from heart disease will cost Americans an estimated $22.7 billion. Besides this, heart and blood vessel diseases will claim over a million lives.

"The problem is especially significant for men between 45 and 64," added McKelvey. "This age group comprises industry's most valuable executives and employees. The loss of key personnel and critical executive skills, plus the cost of training replacement personnel, are factors no businessman can afford to overlook," McKelvey said.

During February, American Heart Month, the Pickaway County Heart Association will join in the nationwide Heart Fund campaign to reduce death and disability from heart and blood vessel diseases. Area businesses will be asked to cooperate by distributing heart-saving information to personnel and contributing to the research, educational and community programs of the Pickaway County Heart Association.

The Heart Association is planning a balloon sale Saturday in all the shopping areas. The Circleville High School SOS club will be conducting the sale.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Each week, the Circleville Herald will publish a series of questions and answers of interest to veterans. These questions are some of the many presented to James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer. Any veteran desiring further information on any question presented in this column, or having any question concerning his Veterans Administration Benefits should contact the Veterans Service Officer at 219 S. Court St.

(Q.) I get VA compensation for a service connected disability. If I have to go to a VA hospital for treatment of the disability, will VA increase my compensation?

(A.) If hospitalized 21 days or more, your disability rating will be increased to 100 per cent. Compensation at that rate will be paid until you leave the hospital.

(Q.) Is it too late to file for the Vietnam Bonus?

(A.) No. The deadline date for filing for the Ohio Vietnam Bonus is December 31, 1977.

(Q.) I heard a brief announcement over the radio about a Kissinger scholarship program. Who is eligible, how much is it and from what source may full particulars be obtained?

(A.) The Kissinger Scholarship Fund was established by Dr. Henry Kissinger in honor of his parents. Persons eligible are children of Service personnel officially designated as missing in action or killed in action in the Indochina theater after December 11, 1961. Awards may range up to $1000, based on financial need. All applicants must have applied for Social Security benefits and War Orphans Educational Assistance. Complete details may be obtained by writing to: Kissinger Scholarship Program, Educational Testing Service, Box 176, Princeton, New Jersey 08540.

(Q.) When a widow remarries can she still receive her benefits from her former husband?

(A.) No. When she remarries she loses her entitlement to VA payments. If she were to get a divorce or her new husband died she could start collecting from the former husband's claim.

(Q.) I draw a VA pension for a total and permanent non-service connected disability and have been rated as in need of aid and attendance. Am I also eligible for outpatient medical treatment for any condition?

(A.) Yes, you are eligible for any medical treatment required, except for dental conditions.

Extend Deadline On Bicentennial

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The deadline for applying to become a Bicentennial community has been extended, the Ohio American Revolution Bicentennial Advisory Commission has announced.

The deadline has been moved from Feb. 15, 1976, to March 31, 1976, the commission said.

Michael Devine, administrator of the commission, said Ohio has nearly 500 Bicentennial communities. He said the deadline was extended for communities which want to help celebrate the nation's 200th birthday but believed it was too late to act.

Underdogs Potent In Cage Acton

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

A St. Valentine's Day massacre in college basketball? Not quite, but the upset-hungry underdogs didn't miss by all that much.

Consider these Saturday results:

—No. 1 Indiana had to play keep-away in the final nine minutes, with reserve guard Jim Crews doing most of the ballhandling, to eke out a 58-48 decision over pesky Illinois.

—No. 2 Marquette saw a 12-point lead cut to two in the late going before Lloyd Walton helped the Warriors pull out a 68-61 triumph over 18th-ranked Virginia Tech.

—No. 3 North Carolina needed four overtimes to outlast Tulane 113-106.

—No. 4 Maryland squandered nearly all of an 18-point secondhalf lead but came away with a 98-89 victory over Clemson, thanks to some clutch foul shooting near the end.

—No. 5 Rutgers, sparked by weak-kneed guard Ed Jordan, barely remained unbeaten by topping

Manhattan 92-81 in overtime.

—And No. 6 UCLA beat Pacific-8 rival Washington, ranked No. 9, by two points for the second time this season, this time by a 78-76 count.

The big losers in Saturday's action were No. 8 Tennessee and No. 15 Western Michigan. The Vols were beaten by Southeastern Conference foe Florida 72-69, and Western Michigan was knocked from the unbeaten ranks by Toledo 88-80.

That left Indiana and Rutgers, both 21-0, as the only unbeaten major college teams in the nation.

Elsewhere among The Associated Press Top Ten, No. 7 Nevada-Las Vegas outscored No. 19 Centenary 122-92 and No. 10 Notre Dame defeated West Virginia 97-77.

"Illinois worked well in their zone," said Indiana Coach Bobby Knight. "They did a good job of covering, and we made a lot of mistakes."

All of which found the Hoosiers leading 50-44 with nine minutes to go, when Knight ordered his club into a stall. Crews got the job done, hitting a basket and four free throws as Illinois got just four points the rest of the way. Center Kent Benson of Indiana led all scorers with 17 points.

Marquette's lead over Virginia Tech was down to two points, 57-55, with 3:45 to play when guard Lloyd Walton went to work. He sank a free throw and set up two layups, then added five more points in the final minute as the Warriors raised their record to 19-1 with their 15th consecutive victory.

Dave Thorpe led all scorers with 30 points for Virginia Tech, 19-4, with losses to North Carolina, Indiana, Duke and Marquette — all on the road.

Mitch Kupchak scored 35 points, Walter Davis 26 and Phil Ford 32 as North Carolina outscored Tulane. Tulane grabbed a quick three-point lead in the fourth overtime of the marathon, but Ford hit four free throws to give the Tar Heels the lead for good.

All five Maryland starters scored in double figures, with John Lucas' 24 pointleading the way. Six of the Terras' last eight points were from the foine, after Clemson had closed to with three.

Jory, Rutgers' playmaker, sat on the bh with strained knee tendons as hisam built an 18-point lead and then sandered it against Manhattan. But went into the game in the final minu of regulation, then took comrad of the flow in overtime and the S4et Knights pulled away. Phil Seilemad Mike Dabney scored 26 pointpiece for Rutgers.

Ricd Washington scored 24 points and lques Johnson 21 for UCLA. Washton held the Bruins without a field il in the final five minutes and nearlited the game, but Clarence Rams' layup following a steal came just ar the final buzzer.

EdOwens scored 24 points to help Nevalas Vegas raise its record to 24-1. nter Robert Parrish had 22 pointsr Centenary.

Lennders' layup with 10 seconds to gclnched Florida's upset of Tennesee, which dropped into a tie for first pe in the SEC with Alabama. The 's, trailing 70-69, muffed a chanco go ahead with 16 seconds to play vn Bernard King was called for an offive foul. Gene Shy led Florida with 20oints. King had 25 for Tennesse.

Winter Olympics Now History

INNSBRUCK (AP) — The 12th Winter Olympic Games passed into history with a show of pageantry in the shadow of the Tyrolean Alps.

"I must now declare the 12th Olympic Winter Games closed," said International Olympic Committee

President Lord Killanin of Ireland, ringing down the curtain on this 12-day international celebration of ice and snow and athletic endeavor.

The large Olympic flag which hung over the Ice Stadia was lowered as the international cast of athletes, gathered informally around the hall, looked on Sunday night. It will be raised again in four years at Lake Placid, N.Y.

The only event held on the final day of these Games was the 90-meter ski jump which was won, fittingly, by the host Austrians. The rest of the day was devoted to the closing ceremonies, a figure skating exhibition, the evacuation of athletes and the aftermath of the Saturday night barroom brawl involving some U.S. hockey players.

J.C. Snead San Diego Open Victor

SAN DIEGO (AP) — "That," said J.C. Snead, "was the longest 24 hours I've ever spent."

"I played that round all night long. I Thought I'd never get to sleep. Then when I woke up, I thought I'd already won the golf tournament."

"It was kind of a disappointment when I realized I had to go out and play it again."

And the big, rangy, drawing nephew of Sam Snead almost let it get away. He watched a commanding five-shot lead dwindle, diminish and all but disappear in the face of a charge by veteran Don Bies.

"I was just trying to hang on," Snead said. "I didn't think I was choking, but I guess I hit, because I hit some shots out there I wouldn't normally hit."

Then he paused and let a big, broad smile brighten his face.

"But I won. That's what counts. I won it."

Snead, who led or shared the lead through all 72 holes, had to birdie the final hole to do it. He won the Andy Williams-San Diego Open Golf Tournament for the second consecutive year with a final round of par 72 on the 7,047-yard South course at the Torrey Pines Country Club and a 272 total, 16 under par.

Bies, who started the bright, sunny final day six shots back, closed to within one with a last round 67 and 273.

Mike Morley, Australian Bruce Crampton and 46-year-old Don January were next at 275. Morley had a 69, Crampton 68 and January 70. Bud Allin was alone at 276 after a closing 68.

Miller Barber, seeking to become only the 10th man to reach $1 million in career winnings, fell just $889 short after his 72 had left him in a tie for 15th place at 279.

Circleville Oil rolled 1067 and Pickaway Auto Parts hit for 1077 for the only two single team games over 1000.

The two teams rolling 3000 or better team series were: Giovanni's Pizza, 3079, and B. F. Goodrich, 3038.

In the Circleville Junior Girls division, it was: Bantam, High single, Becky Eveland, 168, and high series, Leslie Jones, 451; Junior — high single, Tammie Davis, 170, and high series, Lisa Jones, 446; Preps — high single, Theresa Ebbrecht, 105, and high series, Theresa Ebbrecht, 256.

Boys Division honors went to: Bantam — high single, Jim Hipp, 188, and high series, Eric Longberry, 464; Junior — high single, Tim Dietrich, 199, and high series, Jeff Hipp, 531; Senior — high single, Tim Brown, 236, and high series, Tim Brown, 657.

Pat Haley Resigns

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — Bowling Green State University head basketball coach Pat Haley said frustrations of the past couple of seasons helped influence his decision to resign from the post.

Haley submitted his resignation to Athletic Director Dick Young after Saturday night's 67-60 Mid-American Conference victory over Ohio University.

Haley told a Sunday news conference the frustrations—including some key injuries and two close races for the league championship—led him to believe that his resignation "would be best for Pat Haley and best for Bowling Green."

TV Vikings Face Full Cage Court Docket

It will be a "full court" cage docket for coach Bob Hoover and his Teays Valley Vikings this week as they play host to Grandview Tuesday night, Marysville Friday night in Metropolitan League clashes and then meet the Circleville Tigers Saturday night in a county encounter.

The Vikings who are now 7-5 in league play and 8-7 overall are currently in fifth place in the Metro League. The Blue and Gold cagers will have to come up with wins over both Grandview and Marysville if they hope to improve their position in the league standings.

Teays Valley's offense has been lighting the scoreboard at a 72 point game average while allowing the opposition a total of 65 markers per contest.

Jeff Cauger has been leading the Vikings offense with a 19.7 game average while David Schiff has been averaging 12.3 points a game.

The Vikings are also picking up added support from Tim Tosca, Terry Trego, Rusty Rathburn, Charles Morrison, Mark Messick, Mike Johnson, Jeff Voss and Ranie Wohnas.

Grandview is averaging 70 points per game while giving up 56 to the opponents.

Chris McCabe, the league's leading scorer with an average of 23.1, Tony Gatto, 12.3 average, and Vince Mowery lead the powerful Grandview offense.

Grandview is 9-3 in Metropolitan League action and 11-4 overall. Grandview holds down second place in the Metro.

Marysville, 3-10 in league play and 4-13 overall, is currently resting in seventh place in the league.

They are averaging 64 points per game while giving up 68 markers per contest to the opponent.

Mike Griffith, Larry Nickle and Jerry Cruger pace the Marysville attack.

Saturday night the Vikings will be out to stop the high-flying Circleville Tigers who clinched the South Central Ohio League championship Friday night and are sporting a 15-1 overall mark for the season.

On Tuesday night, the reserve game will begin at 6:30 p.m. while the Friday and Saturday night reserve contests will get underway at 7 p.m.

Westfall Frosh Lose To Strong Greenon Team

Westfall's freshman cagers came out on the short end of a 63-37 count against Greenon Saturday in the finals of the Jamestown-Greenview Tournament.

"We were just outclassed by one of the best freshman teams I have ever seen," Westfall coach Rick Sims commented. "Our kids did their best but they were a fine team and a clean bunch of youngsters."

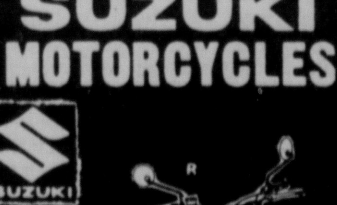

Greenon, by the way, is undefeated in the last three years of competition.

They led the Mustangs all the way, 14-6, 32-18, 45-28 and 63-37. Everyone of the Mustangs saw action in the game.

Bruce Starkey led Westfall with 19 points, Mark List had six, Kevin Creamer added five, George Kern tallied four, Tom Adams netted two and Chris Weaver hit one.

Everyone scored for Greenon with Jeff Colyer leading the way with 17.

Westfall closed the season with a fine mark of 12-3.

Underdogs Potent In Cage Acton

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer
A St. Valentine's Day massacre in college basketball? Not quite, but the upset-hungry underdogs didn't miss by all that much.
Consider these Saturday results:
—No. 1 Indiana had to play keep-away in the final nine minutes, with reserve guard Jim Crews doing most of the ballhandling, to eke out a 58-48 decision over pesky Illinois.
—No. 2 Marquette saw a 12-point lead cut to two in the late going before Lloyd Walton helped the Warriors pull out a 68-61 triumph over 18th-ranked Virginia Tech.
—No. 3 North Carolina needed four overtimes to outlast Tulane 113-106.
—No. 4 Maryland squandered nearly all of an 18-point second-half lead but came away with a 98-89 victory over Clemson, thanks to some clutch foul shooting near the end.
—No. 5 Rutgers, sparked by weak-kneed guard Ed Jordan, barely remained unbeaten by topping

Manhattan 92-81 in overtime.
—And No. 6 UCLA beat Pacific-8 rival Washington, ranked No. 9, by two points for the second time this season, this time by a 78-76 count.
The big losers in Saturday's action were No. 8 Tennessee and No. 15 Western Michigan. The Vols were beaten by Southeastern Conference foe Florida 72-69, and Western Michigan was knocked from the unbeaten ranks by Toledo 88-80.
That left Indiana and Rutgers, both 21-0, as the only unbeaten major college teams in the nation.
Elsewhere among The Associated Press Top Ten, No. 7 Nevada-Las Vegas outscored No. 19 Centenary 122-92 and No. 10 Notre Dame defeated West Virginia 97-77.
"Illinois worked well in their zone," said Indiana Coach Bobby Knight. "They did a good job of covering, and we made a lot of mistakes."
All of which found the Hoosiers leading 50-44 with nine minutes to go, when Knight ordered his club into a stall. Crews got the job done, hitting a basket and four free throws as Illinois got just four points the rest of the way. Center Kent Benson of Indiana led all scorers with 17 points.

Marquette's lead over Virginia Tech was down to two points, 57-55, with 3:45 to play when guard Lloyd Walton went to work. He sank a free throw and set up two layups, then added five more points in the final minute as the Warriors raised their record to 19-1 with their 15th consecutive victory.
Dave Thorpe led all scorers with 30 points for Virginia Tech, 19-4, with losses to North Carolina, Indiana, Duke and Marquette—all on the road.
Mitch Kupchak scored 35 points, Walter Davis 26 and Phil Ford 32 as North Carolina outscored Tulane. Tulane grabbed a quick three-point lead in the fourth overtime of the marathon, but Ford hit four free throws to give the Tar Heels the lead for good.
All five Maryland starters scored in double figures, with John Lucas' 24

Ricd Washington scored 24 points and lques Johnson 21 for UCLA. Washton held the Bruins without a field l in the final five minutes and nearlied the game, but Clarence Rame's layup following a steal came just ar the final buzzer.
EdOwens scored 24 points to help NevaLas Vegas raise its record to 24-1. nter Robert Parrish had 22 pointar Centenary.
Lernders' layup with 10 seconds to gelinched Florida's upset of Tennee, which dropped into a tie for first ge in the SEC with Alabama. The s, trailing 70-69, muffed a chanco go ahead with 16 seconds to play vn Bernard King was called for an offive foul. Gene Shy led Florida with 20ints. King had 25 for Tennessee.
Fresan Bruce Flowers scored 27 pointsd Adrian Dantley reached the 2,000-pt plateau by scoring 26 for Notre me. Dantley also grabbed 21 rebour.
Tole shot a sizzling 72 per cent from tfield in the second half and 65 per c overall to hand Western Michig its first defeat after 19 victories. ive Speicher led a balanced Toledotack with 20 points.
Alsoocked from the unbeaten ranks is the nation's top-ranked collegdivision team, Alcorn State, which opped a 90-87 decision to Jacksonite.
Amo the major college Second Ten, Nd Alabama got 29 points from Leon Iglas and railed from a 10-point bondhalf deficit to beat Louisiana State 78-74; Phil Spence's offensive rebound and layin at the buzzer ive No. 12 North Carolina State : 87-85 victory over Wake Forest; phomore centers Bob Miller and Paumummings scored 10 points each tod No. 13 Cincinnati past St. Louis 65.
Also, im Henderson's 20 points helped : 14 Missouri beat Iowa State 85-64; : 16 Michigan defeated MichigState 81-64 despite 38 points by thesers' Terry Furlow, and Weaselhson's 24 points led No. 19 North las State past Southwestern Louisiana 107-80.

Winter Olympics Now History

INNSBRUCK (AP) — The 12th Winter Olympic Games passed into history with a show of pageantry in the shadow of the Tyrolean Alps.
"I must now declare the 12th Olympic Winter Games closed," said International Olympic Committee

President Lord Killanin of Ireland, ringing down the curtain on this 12-day international celebration of ice and snow and athletic endeavor.
The large Olympic flag which hung over the Ice Stadia was lowered as the international cast of athletes, gathered informally around the hall, looked on Sunday night. It will be raised again in four years at Lake Placid, N.Y.

The only event held on the final day of these Games was the 90-meter ski jump which was won, fittingly, by the host Austrians. The rest of the day was devoted to the closing ceremonies, a figure skating exhibition, the evacuation of athletes and the aftermath of the Saturday night barroom brawl involving some U.S. hockey players.
The brawl cast a shadow over the otherwise successful performance of the U.S. squad here. The United States won 10 medals — including golds by figure skater Dorothy Hamill and speed skaters Sheila Young and Peter Mueller — to finish third in the over-all standings.
That was just two short of the all-time best of 12 won by the American team in 1932 at Lake Placid, an impressive showing for a country that has only one Olympic-size speed skating rink, only one bobsled run and virtually no financial support from the government.
The Soviet Union, with its precision hockey team, powerful speed skaters and virtually tireless cross country skiers, piled up 13 gold medals and 27 total in the 37 events. East Germany was second with seven golds and 19 total.
Unlike the bloody Summer Olympics in Munich four years ago or the confusion that has marked preparations for the Games this summer in Montreal, these Olympics went off smoothly, quietly and with relatively few disputes. That may explain why the brawl involving some U.S. hockey players attracted so much attention. Whatever the reason, it was the subject of discussion throughout Innsbruck Sunday.
Following their crushing 4-1 loss to West Germany, a defeat which cost the U.S. a bronze medal, a dozen or so American hockey players went out on the town Saturday night to drown their sorrows in beer.
There are several versions of how the altercation began. Pat Sullivan, U.S. Olympic counsel, said one of the Americans went into the cellar of a local tavern looking for his parents. "I don't know what happened," said Sullivan. "The hockey player said 'Someone pushed me and I pushed him back.'"
Words were exchanged. A tray of beer was spilled. "A restaurant bouncer got into the controversy and the American boy was on the floor," said Sullivan. "His friends went to help him."

Pat Haley Resigns
BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — Bowling Green State University head basketball coach Pat Haley said frustrations of the past couple of seasons helped influence his decision to resign from the post.
Haley submitted his resignation to Athletic Director Dick Young after Saturday night's 67-60 Mid-American Conference victory over Ohio University.
Haley told a Sunday news conference the frustrations—including some key injuries and two close races for the league championship—led him to believe that his resignation "would be best for Pat Haley and best for Bowling Green."

Viking Freshmen Edged By London

Teays Valley freshman cage squad dropped a tough 56-53 decision to London in the opening round of the Bexley Freshman Tournament Saturday.
The Vikings stayed in the ball game all the way but just couldn't pull the game out of the fire, despite the fact they converted 23 of 26 shots from the charity stripe.

TV Vikings Face Full Cage Court Docket

It will be a "full court" cage docket for coach Bob Hoover and his Teays Valley Vikings this week as they play host to Grandview Tuesday night, Marysville Friday night in Metropolitan League clashes and then meet the Circleville Tigers Saturday night in a county encounter.
The Vikings who are now 7-5 in league play and 8-7 overall are currently in fifth place in the Metro League. The Blue and Gold cagers will have to come up with wins over both Grandview and Marysville if they hope to improve their position in the league standings.
Teays Valley's offense has been lighting the scoreboard at a 72 point game average while allowing the opposition a total of 65 markers per contest.
Jeff Cauger has been leading the Vikings offense with a 19.7 game average while David Schiff has been averaging 12.3 points a game.
The Vikings are also picking up added support from Tim Tosca, Terry Trego, Rusty Rathburn, Charles Morrison, Mark Messick, Mike

Johnson, Jeff Voss and Ranie Wohnas. Grandview is averaging 70 points per game while giving up 56 to the opponents.
Chris McCabe, the league's leading scorer with an average of 23.1, Tony Gatto, 12.3 average, and Vince Mowery lead the powerful Grandview offense.
Grandview is 9-3 in Metropolitan League action and 11-4 overall. Grandview holds down second place in the Metro.
Marysville, 3-10 in league play and 4-13 overall, is currently resting in seventh place in the league.
They are averaging 64 points per game while giving up 68 markers per contest to the opponent.
Mike Griffith, Larry Nickle and Jerry Cruger pace the Marysville attack.
Saturday night the Vikings will be out to stop the high-flying Circleville Tigers who clinched the South Central Ohio League championship Friday night and are sporting a 15-1 overall mark for the season.
On Tuesday night, the reserve game will begin at 6:30 p.m. while the Friday and Saturday night reserve contests will get underway at 7 p.m.

Westfall Frosh Lose To Strong Greenon Team

Westfall's freshman cagers came out on the short end of a 63-37 count against Greenon Saturday in the finals of the Jamestown-Greenview Tournament.
"We were just outclassed by one of the best freshman teams I have ever seen," Westfall coach Rick Sims commented. "Our kids did their best but they were a fine team and a clean bunch of youngsters."
Greenon, by the way, is undefeated in the last three years of competition.
They led the Mustangs all the way, 14-6, 32-18, 45-28 and 63-37. Everyone of the Mustangs saw action in the game.
Bruce Starkey led Westfall with 19 points, Mark List had six, Kevin Creamer added five, George Kern tallied four, Tom Adams netted two and Chris Weaver hit one.
Everyone scored for Greenon with Jeff Colyer leading the way with 17.
Westfall closed the season with a fine mark of 12-3.

Conservatives Put On Push For Reagan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Conservatives who a short while ago were toying with the idea of a third party now are concentrating on winning the Republican nomination for Ronald Reagan.

The former California governor handily won a presidential preference straw poll Sunday at the Conservative Political Action Conference here where conservatives from around the nation met.

Reagan got 268 votes in the balloting, President Ford only got two votes, while 51 votes went to Democratic Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace. Libertarian Party candidate Roger MacBride of Virginia came up with 23.

Only persons officially registered for the three-day conference were eligible to cast a ballot.

Sentiment at the conference sponsored by the American Conservative Union (ACU) and Young Americans for Freedom (YAF) was that Ford is a fine human being but not of conservative presidential timber.

Rep. John M. Ashbrook, R-Ohio, who unsuccessfully challenged Richard M. Nixon in the 1972 primaries, said Ford is trying to be a moderate, middle-of-the-roader, like many of his predecessors in the White House.

"It's been a presidential problem," he said. "In Ohio, the only thing we ever found in the middle of the road is yellow stripes and dead skunks."

Buoyed by Reagan's challenge to Ford in the GOP primaries, there was little talk among the conservatives at the meeting of trying to launch a third-party movement for the Californian. At their conference last year, the main topic was whether to lay the groundwork for another party as an alternate to the Ford candidacy.

But John Sears, Reagan's campaign manager, told a reporter before the straw poll that his boss hasn't changed his mind about not accepting a third party nomination.

Meanwhile, there were these political developments:

—Officials of Ford's campaign committee claim his election prospects are improving. They say this is mainly because earlier plans for the Feb. 24 New Hampshire primary and the March 9 Florida primary now are beginning to come to maturity. Ford spent the weekend campaigning in Florida.

—Reagan, also campaigning in Florida, drummed on his campaign theme of government mismanagement and "social tinkering."

—Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., predicted he would win the Massachusetts and New York Democratic presidential primaries. But he conceded the Florida primary to Wallace.

—Time magazine reported that a nationwide poll shows Americans, by a margin of 55 to 31, would prefer to see a Democrat elected president. But the poll also found that Ford was rated as the most acceptable candidate by 58 per cent of the 1,002 persons surveyed.

—In Mississippi's county conventions, the second step in the Democratic delegate-selection process, Wallace held a continuing lead of nearly half the votes from earlier precinct caucuses. The second largest group was uncommitted, while former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter and Sargent Shriver were running third and fourth, respectively.

—At the AFL-CIO convention in Miami, leaders of the construction unions Sunday dropped plans to campaign against President Ford in retaliation for his veto of the "common site" picketing bill. The building trades, the conservative wing of the labor movement that backed Richard Nixon in 1972, decided that Reagan was equally unacceptable as an alternative to Ford.

—William Loeb, publisher of the Manchester Union Leader, said Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press" that New Hampshire's primary remains a "horse race." But Gov. Meldrim Thomson repeated his prediction that Reagan will win with 55 per cent of the vote. Both men support the Reagan candidacy.

While campaigning in Florida on Saturday, Ford urged the use of the death penalty in federal cases involving sabotage, murder, espionage and treason.

Charles Snider, Wallace's campaign chief, said the governor doesn't see that his partial paralysis below the waist should keep him from running for national office.

Ford Against New Postal Subsidy Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration is opposing moves to help out the financially troubled Postal Service by giving it more of the taxpayers' money.

James T. Lynn, Ford's budget director, is expected to outline the administration's objections to increasing the postal subsidy at a hearing today of the Senate Post Office Committee.

Committee Chairman Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., has proposed doubling the Postal Service's $1.5-billion annual subsidy for three years.

Lynn's position is another indication of increasing tension between the White House and the Postal Service.

President Ford recently said of postal managers, "I just don't accept that they are doing as well as they should be doing. We have to prod them, just like we are prodding New York City, to improve their efficiency, their productivity."

The old Post Office Department for nearly 200 years was one of the most political agencies of government. Presidents named postmasters general, and postal policy traditionally was part of administration policy.

However, since the independent Postal Service was formed in 1971, the postmaster general has not been a presidential appointee and the agency's policies sometimes have differed from those of the administration.

Ford wants to hold down government spending and has cut the budget request for the Postal Service.

This comes at a time when the postal Service desperately needs additional funds. It expects a deficit of about $1.5 billion in the fiscal year ending June 30. That amounts to a loss of nearly 2 cents on each piece of mail delivered.

Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar, testifying in favor of the McGee subsidy proposal, has said that without higher taxpayer subsidies, mail rates would continue their upward spiral.

Larry Siegfried Eyes OSU Coaching Post

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Former Shelby High School and Ohio State University basketball star Larry Siegfried is very much interested in becoming the Buckeyes' new coach.

In a telephone interview from Houston, the assistant coach of the professional Houston Rockets looked at the Ohio State situation created by the resignation of Coach Fred Taylor this month.

Rockets Wipe Out WM, 88-80

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "I think we could be the best team in the league by the end of the season if this is any indication," said Toledo basketball Coach Bob Nichols.

The wily Rockets' mentor was referring to his team's almost incredible performance Saturday night in wiping out Western Michigan's dreams of an undefeated campaign, 88-80.

Left in the wake of Toledo's 65 per cent shooting was the Broncos' 20-game winning streak, an all-time Mid-American record, and the sole conference lead. It was Western's first loss in 20 contests this winter.

So now it's Miami and Western Michigan tied for the MAC lead at 10-1. And Toledo, at 8-3, is just two games back with five conference games to play.

Miami moved along side the Broncos by escaping Northern Illinois 79-73 behind Chuck Goodyear's 27 points. Matt Hicks, the conference's No. 1 scorer, had 25 for the Huskies.

Ball State surprised host Kent State 75-61 and the Flashes' fiery coach, Rex Hughes Jr., ordered a special practice 20 minutes after the game's end.

Kent State shot 50 per cent in the first half, only 26 per cent in the second half. "I'd like to think our defense was the cause of their shooting," said Jim Holstein, the Ball State mentor.

In other MAC action, Ron Hammye's career high of 26 points propelled Bowling Green past Ohio University 67-60 and Leonard Drake hit seven straight shots and scored 25 points in Central Michigan's 74-59 rout of Eastern Michigan.

Nichols called Toledo's offensive performance the best of the season, saying, "It had to be to score 88 points against a great defensive team like theirs. I still say Western Michigan is one of the best teams to come out of the Mid-American in a long time. Tell me who has done what they have."

Eldon Miller, Western Michigan's intense, young mentor, was not surprised.

"I thought Toledo played us better the first time around than any other club in the league. We had trouble against their press because we missed assignments," he said.

In one stretch in the first half, the Rockets converted three straight Bronco turnovers into six points for a permanent 30-23 lead.

Dave Speicher, who led the Rockets with 20 points, nine rebounds and nine assists, said, "We lost a tough game at Miami the other night. Tonight was sort of a pride thing."

Then the 6-foot-7 center added, "We were relaxed. We didn't have the pressure that Western had to have on them."

After scoring 27 points, Bronco star Jeff Tyson saw a silver lining in the defeat. "The loss may do us more good than a victory would have," he said.

In other major Ohio action, Ohio State absorbed a 98-73 Big Ten loss at Purdue and returns to conference play tonight at Illinois. The Buckeyes fell to 2-10 in the league and 6-14 overall.

Cincinnati, 18-3 and No. 13 nationally, took apart St. Louis 60-45 as —Reagan, also campaigning in Florida, drummed on his campaign theme of government mismanagement and "social tinkering."

—Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., predicted he would win the Massachusetts and New York Democratic presidential primaries. But he conceded the Florida primary to Wallace.

—Time magazine reported that a nationwide poll shows Americans, by a margin of 55 to 31, would prefer to see a Democrat elected president. But the poll also found that Ford was rated as the most acceptable candidate by 58 per cent of the 1,002 persons surveyed.

—In Mississippi's county conventions, the second step in the Democratic delegate-selection process, Wallace held a continuing lead of nearly half the votes from earlier precinct caucuses. The second largest group was uncommitted, while former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter and Sargent Shriver were running third and fourth, respectively.

—At the AFL-CIO convention in Miami, leaders of the construction unions Sunday dropped plans to campaign against President Ford in retaliation for his veto of the "common site" picketing bill. The building trades, the conservative wing of the labor movement that backed Richard Nixon in 1972, decided that Reagan was equally unacceptable as an alternative to Ford.

—William Loeb, publisher of the Manchester Union Leader, said Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press" that New Hampshire's primary remains a "horse race." But Gov. Meldrim Thomson repeated his prediction that Reagan will win with 55 per cent of the vote. Both men support the Reagan candidacy.

Ford Against New Postal Subsidy Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration is opposing moves to help out the financially troubled Postal Service by giving it more of the taxpayers' money.

James T. Lynn, Ford's budget director, is expected to outline the administration's objections to increasing the postal subsidy at a hearing today of the Senate Post Office Committee.

Committee Chairman Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., has proposed doubling the Postal Service's $1.5-billion annual subsidy for three years.

Lynn's position is another indication of increasing tension between the White House and the Postal Service.

President Ford recently said of postal managers, "I just don't accept that they are doing as well as they should be doing. We have to prod them, just like we are prodding New York City, to improve their efficiency, their productivity."

The old Post Office Department for nearly 200 years was one of the most political agencies of government. Presidents named postmasters general, and postal policy traditionally was part of administration policy.

However, since the independent Postal Service was formed in 1971, the postmaster general has not been a presidential appointee and the agency's policies sometimes have differed from those of the administration.

Ford wants to hold down government spending and has cut the budget request for the Postal Service.

This comes at a time when the postal Service desperately needs additional funds. It expects a deficit of about $1.5 billion in the fiscal year ending June 30. That amounts to a loss of nearly 2 cents on each piece of mail delivered.

Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar, testifying in favor of the McGee subsidy proposal, has said that without higher taxpayer subsidies, mail rates would continue their upward spiral.

Larry Siegfried Eyes OSU Coaching Post

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Former Shelby High School and Ohio State University basketball star Larry Siegfried is very much interested in becoming the Buckeyes' new coach.

In a telephone interview from Houston, the assistant coach of the professional Houston Rockets looked at the Ohio State situation created by the resignation of Coach Fred Taylor this month.

Rockets Wipe Out WM, 88-80

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "I think we could be the best team in the league by the end of the season if this is any indication," said Toledo basketball Coach Bob Nichols.

The wily Rockets' mentor was referring to his team's almost incredible performance Saturday night in wiping out Western Michigan's dreams of an undefeated campaign, 88-80.

Left in the wake of Toledo's 65 per cent shooting was the Broncos' 20-game winning streak, an all-time Mid-American record, and the sole conference lead. It was Western's first loss in 20 contests this winter.

So now it's Miami and Western Michigan tied for the MAC lead at 10-1. And Toledo, at 8-3, is just two games back with five conference games to play.

Miami moved along side the Broncos by escaping Northern Illinois 79-73 behind Chuck Goodyear's 27 points. Matt Hicks, the conference's No. 1 scorer, had 25 for the Huskies.

Ball State surprised host Kent State 75-61 and the Flashes' fiery coach, Rex Hughes Jr., ordered a special practice 20 minutes after the game's end.

Kent State shot 50 per cent in the first half, only 26 per cent in the second half. "I'd like to think our defense was the cause of their shooting," said Jim Holstein, the Ball State mentor.

In other MAC action, Ron Hammye's career high of 26 points propelled Bowling Green past Ohio University 67-60 and Leonard Drake hit seven straight shots and scored 25 points in Central Michigan's 74-59 rout of Eastern Michigan.

Nichols called Toledo's offensive performance the best of the season, saying, "It had to be to score 88 points against a great defensive team like theirs. I still say Western Michigan is one of the best teams to come out of the Mid-American in a long time. Tell me who has done what they have."

Eldon Miller, Western Michigan's intense, young mentor, was not surprised.

"I thought Toledo played us better the first time around than any other club in the league. We had trouble against their press because we missed assignments," he said.

In one stretch in the first half, the Rockets converted three straight Bronco turnovers into six points for a permanent 30-23 lead.

Dave Speicher, who led the Rockets with 20 points, nine rebounds and nine assists, said, "We lost a tough game at Miami the other night. Tonight was sort of a pride thing."

Then the 6-foot-7 center added, "We were relaxed. We didn't have the pressure that Western had to have on them."

After scoring 27 points, Bronco star Jeff Tyson saw a silver lining in the defeat. "The loss may do us more good than a victory would have," he said.

In other major Ohio action, Ohio State absorbed a 98-73 Big Ten loss at Purdue and returns to conference play tonight at Illinois. The Buckeyes fell to 2-10 in the league and 6-14 overall.

Cincinnati, 18-3 and No. 13 nationally, took apart St. Louis 60-45 as

Columbus Owls Top Toledo Goaldiggers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Columbus Owls meant business Sunday night when they took on the Toledo Goaldiggers.

The Owls posted a no-nonsense seven goal victory over the Goaldiggers, 10-3, in International Hockey League action.

Three Columbus skaters scored twice.

Columbus' Ed Kenty scored the Owls first two goals, one in each of the first two periods. Brian Glenright scored in the first and third period, and Jerry DeMarco struck for two in the second period less than three minutes apart.

Michel Lurrendeau had a pair of scores for the Goaldiggers.

In other IHL action, Saginaw tied Muskegon 3-3, Kalamazoo whipped Port Huron 6-3, and Flint beat Dayton 4-1.

FFA Members Compete In Speaking Contest

By JIM FAUSNAUGH

The Westfall FFA Chapter participated in the Public Speaking Contest held at Paint Valley on Jan. 29.

Jeff Karshner represented Westfall in the Prepared Speech Contest, receiving fourth place and a silver rating.

Jim Fausnaugh participated in the extemporaneous portion of the contest receiving first place and a gold rating. From this contest Jim went to the district contest at North Adams on Feb. 5. At this contest Jim received second place, missing the chance for the state competition by one point.

"Mustang Country" wants to congratulate these two fine speakers for their ratings and to wish them good luck in future contests.

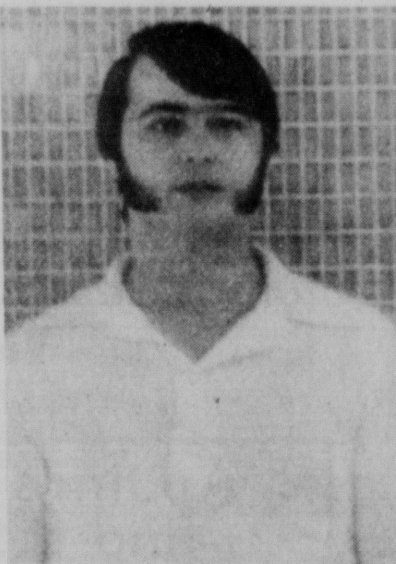

Students Plan Tour To Europe

By MS. MOLLY WHITLACH

A group of Westfall students is presently making plans to travel in Europe this summer. The group will travel in Paris, London, Brussels and Spain for 16 days. The program is offered in conjunction with the American Leadership Study Group. The trip features tours of museums, visits to plays and programs at universities. Sightseeing will cover an extensive part of Europe.

Students in the study group program are selected on a nationwide basis from high schools and colleges. Coordinating the program at Westfall is Ms. Molly Whitlatch. Interested students should contact her for additional details. The group leaves June 14 and returns June 30. The program is not closed to students not currently involved in languages. Anyone may apply.

MIKE EARLY

By EMILIE CALDWELL
Westfall's new vocational agriculture teacher, Mike Early, resides in Mt. Sterling with his wife, Fairzina Gail.

Majoring in agriculture, he graduated from Eastern Kentucky University in 1975.

The young teacher is kept busy with classes of Crop Production, Livestock Production, Farm Management, and Agriculture Mechanics. He is also the advisor for the W.H.S. chapter of the Future Farmers of America.

Early enjoys being outdoors and likes working with wood, refinishing furniture, and all sports.

He commented that he is satisfied with Westfall, but he would like to see changes in the educational outlook of the students. He is disappointed that students don't work up to their full potential.

Westfall Welcomes Exchange Student

By BARB MACE
And VANESSA L. LONG

Westfall students are quickly becoming acquainted with new exchange student Philip Reyna. Philip, 17, hails from Mexico. He is part of the exchange program sponsored by the Mount Sterling Rotary Club and the Club Rotario of Saltillo.

PHILIP REYNA

He is presently living with the Art Dick family of Route 1, Mt. Sterling. Philip arrived in Ohio in September, 1975 and lived with the Jay Joslin family of Mt. Sterling.

He attended Madison Plains High School from September to December. He will live with one more host family later in the year, then return to Mexico in September.

Philip enjoys the rural life of our country compared to Saltillo where he resides in northern Mexico with his three sisters, two brothers and his mother, Marta A. de Reyna. He especially enjoys helping Mr. Dick with the farm work, and he is planning to become a farmer when he graduates.

He likes to play football, baseball, and basketball. He also enjoys roller skating, deer hunting, swimming, and reading.

Philip says that the people and customs are similar to those in his country. One difference he noticed between high school students in the two countries is that the American Students seem to combine studying with work. Most students in Mexico study then go to work after they graduate.

"Mustang Country" would like to welcome Philip to Westfall and to the United States. We hope he enjoys his unique experience, and wish him the best of luck!

Nancy Kissinger Out Of Hospital

BOSTON (AP) — Nancy Kissinger, wife of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, has been released from Massachusetts General Hospital, eight days after undergoing ulcer surgery. She was accompanied by her husband as she flew back to Washington on Sunday. Her doctors said she was making "excellent progress" after having 40 per cent of her stomach removed on Feb. 7.

Doctors said Mrs. Kissinger should be able to return to a normal diet in about two months.

Find Buses Fire Hazard

CINCINNATI (AP)—Tighter enforcement of the no-smoking ban, aboard buses is being urged in Cincinnati in wake of fire tests which indicate plastic seat covers used in Queen City Metro buses pose a safety hazard.

The fire department's findings set off a wave of concern among city officials and school administrators.

City Councilman Gerald Springer said bus drivers "must be told as long as somebody is lighting up on the bus, the bus doesn't move."

The investigation was spurred by an incident last month when a student lit papers under a bus seat, triggering a blaze which gutted the vehicle in minutes, endangering a dozen passengers. The fire caused $45,000 in damages.

Donald Waldrup, superintendent of public schools, said that in view of the new developments students are being reminded that the no smoking ordinance must be rigidly enforced "because of the danger that exists."

Pete Weiglin, assistant general manager of QCM, maintains the buses meet safety standards. "We do not have 169 fire traps running around out there."

Indians surrendered their claims to lands in the Western Reserve west of the Cuyahoga River in 1799, three years after Cleveland, Ohio was founded.

Ohio Senate Report

By OAKLEY C. COLLINS
17th District Senator

The Ohio Senate received a highly controversial piece of legislation from the Ohio House this week.

The version of H.B. 920 passed by the House substantially rewrote Ohio's property tax laws, in effect shifting some of the tax burden for support of education and local government from homeowners to industry and commerce.

In an important series of court cases decided between 1964 and 1972, generally known as the Park Investment cases, the Ohio Supreme Court ruled that the state constitution mandates uniform rates of property taxation in all Ohio counties.

The state Board of Tax Appeals (BTA) subsequently set this rate at 35 per cent of assessed true market value, to go into effect in the 1972-77 sexennial reappraisal cycle. To date 58 of 88 counties have undergone reappraisal.

Some property taxes increased dramatically since 1972 partly due to inflation, and because in some counties property has been assessed below the 35 per cent level.

To keep unvoted taxes constant the legislature in 1972 provided for millage rollbacks to offset the effect of increases in assessed valuation. However, the rollbacks have not been totally effective since: it only applies to millage beyond the first 10 (inside) mills; the millage rate for schools cannot be reduced below 20 mills; and the rollback is based on real property value, but also applies to personal property tax paid by business on equipment and inventories and public utilities taxes.

H.B. 920 substitutes tax credits for the millage rollback plan. Business and industry would no longer receive the rollback benefit and the aggregate tax bills (not individual tax bills) of real property taxpayers would be adjusted by the BTA to keep total property taxes roughly constant.

A one-time adjustment would be made in 1976 for the 77 counties having completed reappraisal. Beginning in 1977 the BTA would make adjustments annually to keep aggregate property tax bills the same since 1971.

These provisions cover both "inside" and "outside" millage, but do not cover charter city millage, bond millage, or millage rates fixed each year to provide a specified amount of revenue.

The known effect of H. B. 920 tends to shift taxes to business and industry, but one unknown result may be increased income taxes next year. The state's school aid plan is based on local taxing effort. If property taxes are rebated through tax credits rather than lower millage rates, the state will have to come up with more money to match higher local millage rates.

The Senate last week passed SB 367 to prohibit release of student information by school authorities without written consent of a minor student's parent or guardian, or of the student if he or she is 18 years of age or older.

The measure excepts law enforcement authorities, routine directory information, and legitimate education authorities.

Present law specified student information to be kept by public schools such as attendance, grades, date of birth, etc., but does not prohibit release of such information to persons not in the student's family.

Pipeline Extension Across Ohio Eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's extension of the pipeline bringing Alaskan natural gas to the state makes "little environmental or economical sense" to the state Environmental Protection Agency, but officials agree there will be little significant environmental damage.

"This state is acutely aware of a 'shortfall' of natural gas," the agency said. "However, the practice of constructing longer and then longer pipelines to remote corners of the globe while potential reserves nearer at hand lie undeveloped because of artificial price ceilings makes little sense."

Christmas Tree Sales Said Good

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Business was up in 1975 for live Christmas tree growers and down for makers of artificial trees, says Darwin Pound, president of the Ohio Christmas Tree Growers, Inc.

Pound, of Licking County, told a winter meeting of the organization Saturday that more people are going back to natural trees than ever before.

He said sales of cut or live trees in 1975 was up five per cent and that sales of artificial trees have been down the past two years.

Pound also said growers received five per cent more for their trees last Christmas and that retail prices were up 10 per cent.

The French attack and destruction of the Miami Indian village of Pickawillany on the present boundary of Shelby and Miami counties in Ohio in 1752 has been called by some historians as the opening battle of the French and Indian War. THE FAMILY LAWYER

In Pennsylvania, a group of citizens sued to shut down a coal mine on the ground that it was polluting the atmosphere. But the judge ruled against them.

"Without smoke," he said, "Pittsburgh would have remained a very pretty village."

No doubt the judge considered his argument a clincher. But he was speaking in the year 1935. Nowadays, a judge might not choose the same language. He might not simply take it for granted that Pittsburgh is better off than if it really had remained a very pretty village.

The case is a good illustration of the law of nuisance. The basic legal principle — in 1935 as well as today — is that a court should "weigh the equities" in deciding whether to halt a troublesome activity.

But in the balancing process, the weights of specific factors may change significantly over the years.

Thus in 1935, at the depth of the Great Depression, a judge could reasonably conclude that the economic harm from shutting down coal mines outweighed the physical harm from air pollution.

Today, in more affluent times, we are able to allot more weight to the benefits of a cleaner environment. We have also learned (as Pittsburgh itself has demonstrated) that air pollution can be drastically reduced without disrupting the operations of industry.

A later case also involved air pollution coming from a coal mine. But here, remedial measures were available which — although somewhat burdensome — would not cause a shutdown. This time, again weighing the equities, the judge said the company would have to put these measures into effect or be held in contempt of court.

Rain, Snow Hit Wide Areas Of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rain fell this morning along the coastal areas of Washington and Oregon and rain was mixed with snow in interior sections.

There were showers and thunderstorms near a front extending from southern Indiana into eastern Kansas, but rainfall amounts were light.

Other precipitation in the nation consisted of snow showers over western Colorado, western South Dakota, eastern Nevada and northern New England.

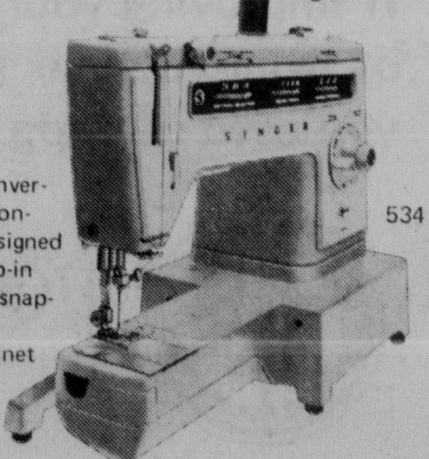

A heavy snow warning was in effect through today for the mountains of Colorado.

Cloudy weather dominated much of the country, except for the south Atlantic Coast and from western Texas into southern California.

Mild temperatures for the season continued across the nation. Readings generally were in the 20s and 30s in the North and in the 50s and 60s in the South. There were a few spots in the teens in the northern Plains and some 70s in extreme southern parts of Texas and Florida.

Ohio Senate Report

By OAKLEY C. COLLINS
17th District Senator

The Ohio Senate received a highly controversial piece of legislation from the Ohio House this week.

The version of H.B. 920 passed by the House substantially rewrote Ohio's property tax laws, in effect shifting some of the tax burden for support of education and local government from homeowners to industry and commerce.

In an important series of court cases decided between 1964 and 1972, generally known as the Park Investment cases, the Ohio Supreme Court ruled that the state constitution mandates uniform rates of property taxation in all Ohio counties.

The state Board of Tax Appeals (BTA) subsequently set this rate at 35 per cent of assessed true market value, to go into effect in the 1972-77 sexennial reappraisal cycle. To date 58 of 88 counties have undergone reappraisal.

Some property taxes increased dramatically since 1972 partly due to inflation, and because in some counties property has been assessed below the 35 per cent level.

To keep unvoted taxes constant the legislature in 1972 provided for millage rollbacks to offset the effect of increases in assessed valuation. However, the rollbacks have not been totally effective since: it only applies to millage beyond the first 10 (inside) mills; the millage rate for schools cannot be reduced below 20 mills; and the rollback is based on real property value, but also applies to personal property tax paid by business on equipment and inventories and public utilities taxes.

H.B. 920 substitutes tax credits for the millage rollback plan. Business and industry would no longer receive the rollback benefit and the aggregate tax bills (not individual tax bills) of real property taxpayers would be adjusted by the BTA to keep total property taxes roughly constant.

A one-time adjustment would be made in 1976 for the 77 counties having completed reappraisal. Beginning in 1977 the BTA would make adjustments annually to keep aggregate property tax bills the same since 1971.

These provisions cover both "inside" and "outside" millage, but do not cover charter city millage, bond millage, or millage rates fixed each year to provide a specified amount of revenue.

The known effect of H. B. 920 tends to shift taxes to business and industry, but one unknown result may be increased income taxes next year. The state's school aid plan is based on local taxing effort. If property taxes are rebated through tax credits rather than lower millage rates, the state will have to come up with more money to match higher local millage rates.

Railroad Program Procedures Listed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Department of Transportation has spelled out a sixstep procedure for rail shippers wanting to participate in the rail subsidy program of the federal rail reorganization.

In a briefing Friday, the department and representatives of the federal agencies involved told shippers they should begin action now for the rail continuation subsidies.

On April 1, the new government-created Consolidated Rail Corp. (ConRail) begins operations in the Midwest and Northeast. ConRail will replace the Penn Central Transportation Co. and other bankrupt railroads, all of which will cease to operate on March 31.

In the briefing Friday, shippers were told they should:

- Begin forming legal entities, such as nonprofit corporations, which could sign contracts for continued operations on spur lines now scheduled for abandonment.
- Begin negotiations between the new entity and the track owner to lease the track for continued operation.
- Initiate negotiations for a contract with ConRail to provide service on the line.
- Initiate negotiations for a maintenance contract for the track.
- Make application to the Federal Railroad Administration for the subsidies.

After receiving FRA approval, execute a grant agreement with FRA for the subsidy.

Ohio participation in the rail subsidy program hinges on federal approval of Ohio's rail system plan. A plan submitted to the FRA last year was rejected with a notation that additional information was required.

G. Albert Weese, an ODOT coordinator, said a supplement to the plan is being prepared. He said he anticipates no problem having the revised plan approved. He said it would be submitted by the end of February.

Weese said the Ohio Rail Transportation Authority, created by the legislature last year, will become the state coordinating body to deal with the Federal Rail Administration.

He said, however, that ODOT will continue to work with shippers until ORTA is fully functioning.

Highway Crashes Claim 11 Lives

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least 11 persons were killed in traffic accidents on Ohio roads over the weekend, including a 9-year-old Columbus youth killed when the go-cart he was driving struck the rear of a parked truck.

The Highway Patrol keeps the count from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday.

The dead:

SUNDAY

CELJNA — Robert Moeller, 19 of New Weston, in a one-car accident on a Mercer County road.

CIRCLEVILLE — Becky Jean Schwalbaugh, 20, of Laurelville, in a one-car accident on a Pickaway County road.

NEW VIENNA — Glenn Little, 52, of New Vienna in one-car accident on Ohio 28 in Highland County.

XENIA — Vicki L. Dominguez, 16, of New Carlisle, in a two-car crash on Ohio 380.

COLUMBUS — Brian Flint, 9, of Columbus, when the go-cart he was driving on a city street struck a parked truck.

LJMA — May F. Cunningham, 49, of Leipsic, in a one-car accident at the intersection of Putnam County roads 5 and A.

SATURDAY

BUCYRUS — Michael L. Steiger, 19, of Bucyrus, in a one-car crash on a Crawford County road west of Bucyrus.

PAULDING — Rita K. Krugh, 51, of Payne, when a car apparently failed to halt at a stop sign and struck her automobile on U.S. 127 in Paulding County south of Paulding.

LOUISVILLE — Donald L. Garo, 64, of Louisville, when he was struck by a car while he was walking on Ohio 153 in Stark County west of Louisville.

SPRINGFIELD — Cecil T. Provans, 60, of Yellow Springs, in a two-car crash on a township road in Clark County near Springfield.

SHEFFIELD VILLAGE — Kathy Lease, 17, of Sheffield Lake, in a two-car accident in Lorain County.

Thieves Take Appliances From Yard

Thieves carried away $850 worth of household items Austin B. Ross had placed in his yard while remodeling his house, according to Circleville Police reports.

Ross, of 227 Town St., apparently left the items in his yard Tuesday, and noticed Saturday that they were missing.

They include a Whirlpool air conditioner valued at $300, a Sylvania portable television set valued at $350, and a dish washer valued at $200.

Thieves broke into a car owned by Shirley McDonald, 185 Nicholas Dr., to take a combination AM-FM tape player and radio and speakers.

The unit is valued at $155. The theft occurred between 10 p.m. Friday and 11 a.m. Saturday.

Nancy Hart, 918 S. Court St., told police that thieves took $10 from a china closet in her home, and Dale L. Grenno, Route 2, reported that vandals scratched the windshield of his car Friday night while he attended the basketball game at the Mill St. gymnasium.

Seek Attack On Foul Odors

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Massillon lawmaker wants the General Assembly to attack the problem of foul odors, a nuisance he believes has been largely overlooked by environmentalists.

Rep. Richard F. Maier, R-48 Massillon, has introduced a bill that would outlaw the dumping of human waste on open land areas within one mile of a home. The intent is to force haulers to take drainage from septic tanks and cesspools to sewage treatment plants.

Prompted by complaints from constituents in his Jackson Township neighborhood, Maier notes that the only way to block the dumping under current law is to have it declared a public nuisance.

His bill would make the dumping of human waste, even on one's own land, a specific "statutory nuisance," punishable by fines of up to $100 for each day the sewage is not removed.

"The Environmental Protection Agency has not gotten into this particular aspect," Maier says. "We really haven't attacked the problem of something smelling bad."

The northeast Ohio legislator, admits he does not know how widespread the problem is, but suspects it exists in many rural and outlying suburban areas where septic tanks and cesspools are prevalent.

Testimony in the House Energy and Environment Committee indicated haulers charge an extra $5—in addition to a drainage fee—for taking waste to a treatment plant.

That cost can be cut by dumping the waste, with the owner's consent, in swampy or otherwise marginally tillable land, Maier notes.

The 50-year-old attorney stresses that his bill would apply only to untreated human waste and not to fertilizer, manure or kitchen and laundry waste.

He says Ohio EPA has some limited authority to regulate stench, but that it has not been widely enforced.

Maier is optimistic that the bill will be favorably acted upon in the committee and presented to the full House membership.

Thieves Take Appliances From Yard

Thieves carried away $850 worth of household items Austin B. Ross had placed in his yard while remodeling his house, according to Circleville Police reports.

Ross, of 227 Town St., apparently left the items in his yard Tuesday, and noticed Saturday that they were missing.

They include a Whirlpool air conditioner valued at $300, a Sylvania portable television set valued at $350, and a dish washer valued at $200.

Thieves broke into a car owned by Shirley McDonald, 185 Nicholas Dr., to take a combination AM-FM tape player and radio and speakers.

The unit is valued at $155. The theft occurred between 10 p.m. Friday and 11 a.m. Saturday.

Nancy Hart, 918 S. Court St., told police that thieves took $10 from a china closet in her home, and Dale L. Grenno, Route 2, reported that vandals scratched the windshield of his car Friday night while he attended the basketball game at the Mill St. gymnasium.

David Pearson Wins Daytona 500 Race

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Benny Parsons couldn't believe his eyes. There were the men to whom he'd conceded victory, David Pearson and Richard Petty, scattered through the infield in their crumpled race cars.

It was also a pretty unbelievable sight for 120,000 fans packed into Daytona International Speedway, and for millions watching on national television.

Pearson and Petty, who had gone down to the wire together so many times in so many races before, looked like they'd finally taken each other out of the chase. And Parsons, who won last year when Pearson spun out two laps from the finish, for an instant thought fortune had smiled on him again in the Daytona 500.

"But we were just one lap too late," he said with a sigh after Pearson wrestled his battered Mercury to victory Sunday in undoubtedly the wildest finish ever in NASCAR Grand National racing's premiere event.

What had shaped up as the same old plot, with Pearson and Petty playing it down to the last turn on the last lap in yet another 500-mile stock car Armageddon, suddenly became an incredible, hair-raising spectacle.

"I made my move going down the backstretch and finally pulled ahead of Richard going into the third turn," said Pearson, describing the frantic last lap. "But Richard got me right back going into the fourth turn, I thought it was all over."

"I told my pit crew Richard had too much horsepower for me to pass him again."

32. Public Sale

A PUBLIC auction will be held Saturday. Members of the public who wish to be auctioned contact Berie at Hawbaker's Auction Co.

But Petty used too much horsepower retaking the lead, and couldn't control his car through the corner. Petty's Dodge clipped Pearson's Mercury in the left front fender.

"I tried to save it, but she got around sideways and went head-on about as hard as it could into that wall," Pearson said. "That's when I hit Richard and he started crashing too."

"Somewhere along in there I hit somebody else, I guess it was Joe Frasson, and he sort of straightened me out."

All the while, Pearson had the presence of mind to push in the clutch and keep revving his faltering engine.

Once stopped, he screamed into his pit radio, "Where's Petty? Where's Petty?"

"Go, go, go!" came the reply from his crew, the famed Wood brothers.

So with the front of his car flattened from the impact and dust still flying, Pearson rumbled off through the infield, past Petty, and onto the track at about 15 miles per hour to victory.

Petty, meanwhile, futilely tried to restart his ravaged car just an agonizing 50 feet short of what would have been his sixth Daytona 500 triumph.

The biggest payday of Pearson's career was worth $46,800 after lap prize and appearance money was divided up. Petty earned $35,750, with Parsons taking $23,680.

Women Pilot Helicopters

WASHINGTON (AP) —

With six more women helicopter pilots qualifying by the end of 1975, total membership of The Whirly-Girls, international women helicopter pilots, has reached 210 in 13 countries.

Those recently qualifying included a U.S. army aviator in Germany, a housewife in France, another in Illinois, a flight instructor-charter pilot in Arizona and in England, two housewives who are members of the Helicopter Club of Great Britain.

Householders in Tehran, Iran's capital, send their valued carpets to be washed in a clear spring near the city. Afterward they are placed in the sun to dry on a hillside near the ruins of an old walled city called Rai.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): You may run into unexpected opposition, some rough areas. Be ready, take all with your innate common sense, and try all the harder to achieve worthwhile objectives.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Tentatively reject uncertainties — until you have more facts and a better guarantee of success. Ask counsel of well-informed persons.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Favorable aspects stimulate originality and some chance-taking — IF reasonable. Don't go out on the proverbial limb, however, and DO avoid extremism.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Accentuate the positive in your thinking if you would make the real advancement possible now. Routine activities may be happily supplemented by some new interests.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Despite possible obstacles, you could win many benefits from this day's efforts. Take steps to launch long-range plans, to complete unfinished tasks.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): You are inclined to be extremely critical of others, but the shoe may be on the other foot now. Don't be resentful. Listen — and learn!

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Follow your instincts now. Inspiration should be at a peak and could disclose heartening new vistas which will open to you shortly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): A note of extra activity here. Also a hint of disturbance where it could. SHOULD be avoided. Determine to keep order, to maintain balance and friendly relationships.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Tip-top results indicated in current projects. You may be on delicate ground in some areas, but no dilemma exists without its solution. Search!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Excellent aspects encourage clever activity, but don't set up hazards for yourself through impulsiveness, or superfluous moves, unfruitful undertakings.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): The outgoing Aquarian should find this period entertaining and instructive. Be ready for new beginnings, sharpened incentives.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Curb tendencies toward indecisiveness, lack of resolution. Even if situations are difficult, face them, pitch in — and solve!

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with many fine traits which can lead to a most successful life — notably, a magnetic personality, outstanding integrity, sound sense and the ability to put good ideas over the top. You can add the touch that makes the ordinary undertaking sparkle, start unique enterprises with a vim that enthralls all about you. You have extraordinary sales ability and, with a flair for the dramatic, could succeed as an entertainer, writer or, in the legal field, as a trial lawyer.

NEW YORK (AP) — As fans of NBC's "Emergency" know, Bobby Troup is one of the show's white-coated medics who practice the hurry-up healing arts whenever an ailing citizen is rushed into the emergency room.

But few younger viewers realize he's also a talented composer, pianist and singer who, prior to joining the show, was a consistent audience-pleaser with the trio he led in Los Angeles-area jazz clubs.

Troup, who co-stars in "Emergency" with his wife of 17 years, actress-singer Julie London, says he hasn't worked club dates since he joined the series five years ago. The reason?

"It's mainly because there are no clubs available here in Los Angeles for groups like mine, for my kind of music," says Troup, whose kind of music is soft, swinging jazz, not loud, leaping rock.

He was told there has been a gradual increase in the number of such clubs here in Fun City. And he was asked if he'd ever thought about working in one of them when his series isn't in production.

"Well," he gently laughed during a phone interview from his home in Encino, Calif., "somebody back there has been calling me about working in 'Michael's Pub' (a local jazz club).

"I, ah, told him I'd think about it. But in answer to your question, yeah, I probably would."

He said when he first arrived in Los Angeles after World War II, "there must have been 200, 300 clubs where people were doing Cole Porter and Johnny Mercer songs, things like that."

"Now, everything's so rock-oriented," Troup, who was stating a fact, but not griping about it, moved West after wartime service in the Marines. Before the war, he'd studied economics at the University of Pennsylvania.

He might have wound up running the family music stores in his home town of Harrisburg, Pa., and in nearby Lancaster had it not been for a song he wrote for a college music show in 1940.

It was called "Daddy." A popular bandleader, Sammy Kaye, happened to hear it, recorded it and it became a hit. Which set young Troup to thinking about a career in songwriting and singing.

So after the war, he bid Harrisburg farewell, got in a car and headed to California to try his luck. A few miles out of Chicago, he was driving down U.S. 66 and a song idea came to mind.

It became a tune called "Route 66" and was his second hit.

"I wrote half the song riding along in the car," the 57-year-old actor recalled. He estimates he's since written another 300 tunes, among them such standards as "Girl Talk" and "The Meaning of the Blues."

But he says he doesn't tussle with the musical muse often now because rock music seems to be ruling the roost "and I just don't think there's any market for the kinds of songs I write."

He was asked if he thought musical tastes in America may someday go back the simpler days, when melody, not the beat, predominated. "I don't know," Bobby Troup said softly. "I guess I'm pessimistic. But I'd love to be proven wrong."

The presidential candidate with the highest electoral vote ever was Franklin Roosevelt.

Congress Readies Action On Military, Copyright Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration is shying away from a confrontation with Congress over military aid and is pessimistic about the chances that the lawmakers will support the President's veto of a public-works jobs bill.

As the House and Senate return from their mid-February recess, the week opens with the traditional reading in the Senate and House chambers today of Washington's farewell address.

The Senate also is scheduled to debate major changes in the copyright laws, but final action on that complex bill probably won't come until late in the week.

On Tuesday, the Senate turns to a $3.05-billion military aid bill, about which White House aides say President Ford has "deep reservations." But Max Friedersdorf, chief White House lobbyist, says that rather than risk delaying passage of the bill, Ford plans no major effort to delete the sections he finds objectionable.

A House version still is in committee, and the White House is hopeful that the measure that finally reaches Ford will no longer contain sections requiring unprecedented disclosure of foreign arms purchase plans and giving Congress a chance to veto particular agreements.

As for chances of upholding Ford's veto last week of a $6.1-billion public-service jobs bill, Friedersdorf conceded, "Obviously, it's going to be difficult."

A House vote on overriding Ford's veto, his 46th since he became president, is scheduled for Thursday.

In a strongly worded veto message, Ford called the bill "little more than election pork barrel" with "so many deficiencies and undesirable provisions that it would do more harm than good."

Friedersdorf said he is citing the drop in the unemployment rate from 8.3 percent to 7.8 percent in January and the bill's cost in efforts to muster enough votes to block override of the veto. It takes a two-thirds vote in both the House and Senate to pass a bill over a veto.

While Ford was contending the bill would "do little to create jobs for the unemployed," the House Democratic leadership branded Ford's action an example of presidential "disdain for the nation's unemployed."

Supporters of the bill say it would continue an existing program of 320,000 jobs in state and local governments and create 280,000 more jobs, mainly in nongovernmental, nonprofit institutions such as schools and hospitals.

Other congressional action this week should include:

—Continued efforts to revamp the Federal Election Commission to satisfy a Supreme Court decision that would strip it of its principal powers on March 1 unless appointment of all its members is left to the president. A majority of the current commission is named by Congress.

—Another fight in the Senate Rules Committee over whether to abolish the Internal Security subcommittee, by refusing to approve its request for $295,300 for operating expenses. A similar attempt last year resulted in cutting the committee budget request in half.

The House voted last year to abolish its internal security committee.

Department Recalled To House Fire

The Scioto Twp. fire department was recalled to a frame house at 41 Main St. in Commercial Point early Sunday morning after a fire which was thought to be extinguished Saturday night apparently rekindled.

The house, a one-story frame dwelling, is owned by William Johnson, 43 Main St. Occupant is Marjorie Marcum.

Scioto Twp. fire fighters battled a blaze which started around a chimney for two hours Saturday night, returning to the station house at 11:45 p.m.

However, the fire apparently rekindled and the fire fighters returned to the scene 3:49 a.m. Sunday.

Fire, smoke, and water damage were reported by investigating Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies. There was no estimate of loss.

Seek End To Fighting In Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian pressure brought Moslem and leftist leaders into line today behind the political reforms designed to end the Moslem-Christian civil war in Lebanon.

After a series of conferences with Syrian Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam, some retracted statements rejecting the Syrian-sponsored reforms which President Suleiman Franjeh announced Saturday night. Radical Palestinian guerrilla groups toned down their objections.

"We shall strictly observe the Syrian-negotiated cease-fire, but we shall continue the struggle to achieve the masses' aspirations in Lebanon by nonviolent methods," said a spokesman for the Marxist Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine. On Sunday night it rejected the Syrian peace plan and called for "a people's war" to reassert the Palestinian guerrillas' presence in Lebanon.

The most extreme of the Palestinians, Capt. Ahmed Jibril of the PFLP-General Command, was summoned to Damascus for talks with President Hafez Assad and afterward declared his support for Syrian peace-making efforts in Lebanon.

Only the powerful Socialist-Druze leader, Kamal Junblatt, remained reserved. He said he would announce his stand after a meeting with other leftist leaders today.

Report New Sahara Fighting; Algeria Denies Army Involved

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — The Moroccan government has reported new fighting between Algerian and Moroccan troops in the Spanish Sahara, but the Algerian government denied today that its army was involved.

The Moroccan government announced Sunday that regular Algerian troops using heavy Soviet-made equipment recaptured the Amghala oasis from Moroccan forces on Saturday. An article in the Algerian government newspaper El Moudjahid implied that pro-Algerian guerrillas of the Polisario Front drove the Moroccan troops out of Amghala.

"This false accusation will fool no one," said the Algerian statement. "In truth, it is not new for the fighters of the Polisario Front to inflict bitter defeats on Moroccan and Mauritanian troops."

King Hassan II said there were "dozens" of Moroccan casualties in the attack on the desert outpost 175 miles southwest of the Algerian border.

Hassan sent a telegram to Algeria's President Houari Boumedienne warning against further Algerian military action in the territory, which Spain has agreed to turn over to Morocco and Mauritania on Feb. 29 despite Algerian protests.

The king called on Boumedienne to "either fight a legally declared war or establish an internationally guaranteed peace." He said the Algerian army had repeatedly violated Boumedienne's assurances to him that "no Algerian soldier and no Algerian weapon" would ever be deployed against Moroccan forces in the Spanish Sahara.

Hassan said the Moroccan garrison at Amghala "was treacherously attacked" by Algerian units "in numbers clearly designed for an annihilation mission."

He appealed to Boumedienne to "avoid another tragedy" like the brief but bloody border war the two Arab neighbors fought in 1963.

3 Women Gunned Down

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Four armed men shot and killed three women and gravely wounded the son of one of the women in a farmhouse on the northern outskirts of Belfast, police reported.

Two other women were treated for shock.

Police gave this account:

The gunmen burst into the house Sunday night and demanded money. When Michael Sloan, 20, went upstairs to find some money, he was gunned down and left for dead. Then the men killed his mother, Mary Sloan, 50; his sister, Mary, 19; and a friend, Doris McGrath, 23.

Bridget Sloan, 17, and an aunt, Kathleen, 65, were in bed asleep when the shooting started. They were taken to a hospital in severe shock.

Judge Attacks Jury System

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Most jurors have little legal expertise, so the average criminal trial boils down to a gamble, says an Indianapolis judge.

If justice is rendered it's accidental, Judge John B. Wilson Jr. added. He said the problem stems from 12 persons who generally have no legal background being asked to interpret laws that stump some judges.

Personality conflicts among jurors, as well as the emergence of a single dominant juror, can affect the quality of justice, Wilson said. Guilty persons gamble on a jury trial because they have nothing to lose and chances are good for an acquittal or reduced sentence.

Goshen Man Dies Of Burn Injuries

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — Harry Spry, 71, Goshen, died in St. Joseph's Hospital here Sunday night of injuries suffered in a fire in his apartment earlier in the day.

Firemen said damage to the apartment was light. They said Spry apparently fell asleep while smoking.

Hearst Jury Sees Apartment Closets

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst and the jurors who will decide her fate plan to see today the two apartment closets where she says she was held in dark captivity for weeks after her kidnapping.

Miss Hearst testified the Symphonese Liberation Army kept her blindfolded and tied, coerced her into taping a plea to her parents to cooperate with her captors and physically abused her. She began telling the jurors on Friday her story of why she took part in an SLA bank robbery for which she is on trial.

Details of today's excursion were kept confidential "for security reasons," said her chief defense attorney, F. Lee Bailey. Federal marshals were to take the jurors to suburban Daly City and escort them into the apartment where Miss Hearst was taken the night she was dragged screaming from her Berkeley apartment.

They were to see a tiny closet, not more than two feet wide, which Miss Hearst, in a moment of near-hysteria, thought would be her coffin, according to her testimony.

They also were to be bused to a San Francisco ghetto where the 21-year-old defendant alleges she later was held hostage in a slightly larger closet, and where she taped her now-renounced oath of allegiance to the terrorists who kidnapped her on Feb. 4, 1974.

It was there, she has testified, that she was removed from her dark and smelly cell only long enough to be briefed on the SLA's plans to rob the Sunset district branch of Hibernia Bank on April 15, 1974, and to be introduced to the world as their greatest triumph—a newspaper heiress turned gun-slinging "Tania" of the underground.

Bailey also wanted to take the jury to the bank because "some of the witnesses have fouled up the description of the bank and we want to straighten that out."

But the jury's tour of the bank,

ABA Conference Opens In Philly

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — With an agenda that includes prostitution and politics, the American Bar Association's policy-making House of Delegates opens two days of meetings here today.

The sessions are part of the ABA's six-day mid-year meeting. The highlight so far has been the announcement of plans for a Bicentennial conference to examine the working of the nation's courts.

In a message read for him Sunday because he was ill, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said the conference would "inquire into the nature and utility of our judicial system."

The conference will be held April 18 and 19 in St. Paul, Minn. It was arranged by Burger and leaders of the ABA and the National Conference of Chief Justices.

Congress Readies Action On Military, Copyright Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration is shying away from a confrontation with Congress over military aid and is pessimistic about the chances that the lawmakers will support the President's veto of a public-works jobs bill.

As the House and Senate return from their mid-February recess, the week opens with the traditional reading in the Senate and House chambers today of Washington's farewell address.

The Senate also is scheduled to debate major changes in the copyright laws, but final action on that complex bill probably won't come until late in the week.

On Tuesday, the Senate turns to a $3.05-billion military aid bill, about which White House aides say President Ford has "deep reservations." But Max Friedersdorf, chief White House lobbyist, says that rather than risk delaying passage of the bill, Ford plans no major effort to delete the sections he finds objectionable.

A House version still is in committee, and the White House is hopeful that the measure that finally reaches Ford will no longer contain sections requiring unprecedented disclosure of foreign arms purchase plans and giving Congress a chance to veto particular agreements.

As for chances of upholding Ford's veto last week of a $5.1-billion public-service jobs bill, Friedersdorf conceded, "Obviously, it's going to be difficult."

A House vote on overriding Ford's veto, his 46th since he became president, is scheduled for Thursday. In a strongly worded veto message, Ford called the bill "little more than election pork barrel" with "so many deficiencies and undesirable provisions that it would do more harm than good."

Friedersdorf said he is citing the drop in the unemployment rate from 8.3 percent to 7.8 percent in January and the bill's cost in efforts to muster enough votes to block override of the veto. It takes a two-thirds vote in both the House and Senate to pass a bill over a veto.

While Ford was contending the bill would "do little to create jobs for the unemployed," the House Democratic leadership branded Ford's action an example of presidential "disdain for the nation's unemployed."

Supporters of the bill say it would continue an existing program of 320,000 jobs in state and local governments and create 280,000 more jobs, mainly in nongovernmental, nonprofit institutions such as schools and hospitals.

Other congressional action this week should include:

—Continued efforts to revamp the Federal Election Commission to satisfy a Supreme Court decision that would strip it of its principal powers on March 1 unless appointment of all its members is left to the president. A majority of the current commission is named by Congress.

—Another fight in the Senate Rules Committee over whether to abolish the Internal Security subcommittee, by refusing to approve its request for $295,300 for operating expenses. A similar attempt last year resulted in cutting the committee budget request in half.

Bailey also wanted to take the jury to the bank because "some of the witnesses have fouled up the description of the bank and we want to straighten that out."

But the jury's tour of the bank, scheduled for today, was canceled Sunday night after bank officials said security and insurance problems would prevent its special opening on the holiday, a defense spokesman said.

The apartments to be viewed are now occupied by other tenants. Bailey had requested that the jurors see the apartments to help them understand "the enormity of six to eight weeks confinement under those conditions."

Miss Hearst, captured last Sept. 18, was the star witness Friday, taking the stand for three hours after the prosecution rested its case. She will resume her testimony Tuesday.
